Peace for the Mideast—Nixon Asks Tito's Help

BELGRADE (UPI)—President Nixon asked President Tito today to help bring peace to the Middle East and assured him the United States opposed foreign intervention.

Tito, 78-year-old Communist leader of the non-aligned third world of nations, greeted Nixon at the door of the Adriatic stone and marble federal government building for three hours of private talks.

Nixon paused on the way to the building on the Sava River to shake hands with curious, friendly Yugoslavs.

The American President was accompanied by Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, his national security affairs adviser. After posing briefly for photographers, the two leaders sat facing each other across a long table covered in green baize.

U.S. officials said Nixon sought out advice from Tito, who is close to leaders in both the Arab world and the Kremlin, on getting negotiations moving between the Arabs and Israelis despite the disrupting impact of the death of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

Nixon also assured Tito, American aides said, that the Middle East, as in Vietnam, was to allow the people to decide their own destiny without foreign influence.

Warning to Nixon's visit on the day he would otherwise have attended the Cairo funeral, of his friend Nasser, Tito changed his plans and decided to appear with Nixon later in the day at Zagreb, the capital of Croatia.

Twice during an evening drive through downtown Belgrade after laying a wreath on the tomb of Yugoslavia's Unknown Soldier Wednesday, Nixon halted his car and crowds of cheering, applauding Yugoslavs milled around.

The warmth of this mixing with the crowds contrasted to a somewhat reserved although friendly reception offered earlier in the day by an estimated 200,000 persons who lined the 10-mile route from Belgrade airport to downtown.

Nixon also was reported anxious to hear Tito's views on Soviet naval expansion in the Mediterranean and on Yugoslav relations with Moscow.

In a speech after a state dinner in Nixon's honor Wednesday evening, Tito went out of his way to make a strong new pitch for nonalignment in the East-West power struggle. He told Nixon that in his opinion the world will continue to live under the threat of a new world war unless Washington and Moscow can settle their differences.

Nixon replied: "You can be our friend without being anyone else's enemy."

He told Tito the United States' sole objective in the Middle East and Vietnam is "to help ensure that people and nations will be able to live in peace and be able to build their own lives in accordance with their own aspirations."

Violent Emotion as Nasser Is Buried

Throng Turn Funeral Into Chaos

CAIRO (UPI)—Gamal Abdel Nasser, for 14 years the ruler of modern Egypt, was buried today in a simple black shroud. Millions of Egyptians who had turned the six-mile-long funeral procession into chaos wailed and shouted "Nasser! Nasser!" and "Goodbye, Gamal."

The body of the 52-year-old president who died Monday from a heart attack, was taken from its wooden coffin during a 10-minute Moslem rite in the stone mosque renamed the El Nasser Mosque and committed to the earth of the desert nation he freed from 5,000 years of rule by kings.

Cairo was overwhelmed with grief, and the agony of his death was felt throughout the Arab world where there were miles long processions of women who wailed and tore their handkerchiefs and men who fired volley after volley of gunfire into the air. Many watched on television through the Middle East—even in Jerusalem.

The old comrades who with Nasser carried out the 1952 coup that overthrew King Farouk bore the coffin into the mosque. Prayers from the Koran were read as the body was placed in the ground. Mourners in the mosque jostled and pushed to kiss the coffin and the Egyptian flag in which it had been draped. The last note of taps echoed through the sob-wracked mosque at 1:55 p. m. (7:55 a. m. EDT).

"To heaven, Gamal!" shouted the mourners. "To heaven!"

The funeral procession took three hours. Describing its final stages, the Middle East News Agency said:

"People went out of their minds as they saw the hearse approaching the mosque. They broke into hysterical sobs. Many collapsed."

Cairo radio's announcer repeatedly shouted, "Allah Akbar" God is greater as the son of a peasant postman went to his grave.

Black clad mourners waving white handkerchiefs and white flags clogged the streets of the six-mile funeral procession from downtown Cairo to the suburban mosque. They overwhelmed police and soldiers trying to contain them, and at one point almost spilled the coffin from its gun carriage.

The millions of mourners strained to touch the coffin and many succeeded. At one point they lifted the carriage wheels off the ground. The six black Arabian stallions pulling the gun carriage were cut off from the armored car escort sent into ease the passage through the multitude.

Israel ushered in year 5731 on the Jewish calendar with a double-barreled blast at the Soviet Union for its military role in Egypt and its refusal to let Russian Jews emigrate to Israel. Story Page 3.

Conservative estimates said more than four million Egyptians had poured into Cairo by train, by bus, by donkey and on foot for a glimpse of the funeral procession for the blue-eyed revolutionary who became the Arab world's greatest hero of modern times.

Scores fainted in the 90 degree heat including Nasser's widow, Tahia, who found herself surrounded by well-meaning Egyptians wailing their sympathies. There were so many they almost covered the coffin and the Egyptian flag was lost to view.

Police and troops manning barricades dropped their rifles and collapsed, tears running down their faces, as the mourners overwhelmed them with sheer numbers.

As the black-garbed mourners crushed into the line of the funeral march officials brought in four armored cars to precede the gun carriage. But that failed to hold back the throngs which pressed in ever closer.

Cairo radio announcers describing the procession wept loudly. Some, overcome with emotion, had to turn over microphones to their colleagues.

Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin led the 18 heads of state, nine prime ministers, four vice presidents and dozens of ministers and special envoys from around the world who gathered in Cairo for the event.

The delegations and officials—all men since in the Moslem religion women are not allowed in a funeral cortege—formed a mile-long train to walk through the streets of Cairo in the procession. The public was allowed to follow, and estimates were the millions who wanted to do so would add another five miles to the cortege.

Nasser's body was taken from the Republican Palace clinic where it has been since his death of a heart attack at 6:15 p. m. Monday to a hall near his office, where, under a huge chandelier, his coffin was draped in the red, white and black Egyptian flag. It then was taken to a helicopter and flown halfway across Cairo to a cream-colored, two-story building with a lower that looks like a minaret of a mosque.

The building along the Nile was the former headquarters of the Revolution Council which staged the 1952 coup under Nasser's leadership and overthrew the monarchy of King Farouk.

From there, his coffin carried on a gun carriage, Nasser's remains made their slow, six-mile journey to his final resting place. On the way the procession crossed the Nile to the headquarters of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only legal political organization. Nasser's widow, Tahia, and his two daughters, Hoda and Muna, watched the funeral from that building.

The cortege then slowly moved to the new mosque, renamed the El Nasser mosque, where his body was being laid to rest in a hastily formed grave.

In accordance with Moslem rule, the body in a simple black shroud was taken out of the

Glasco, Saugerties Men Killed in Car Mishaps

By WALTER S. CLARK

TOWN OF SAUGERTIES

A 20-year-old serviceman home on leave from the Army and a 44-year-old man lost their lives in unrelated traffic accidents that occurred overnight on highways in this township, according to Kingston State Police.

Killed in the mishaps were Wayne S. Havens of Box 553, Glasco, and John Chodaba, 44, of 15 Louis Avenue, Saugerties.

According to investigators, Havens was a passenger in a car operated by 16-year-old Thomas J. Petramale of P.O. Box 587, Glasco, when he was killed at about 9:40 p. m. Wednesday.

Authorities said Petramale was driving his car west on Main Street in Glasco at an apparent high rate of speed, when the vehicle skidded out of control on wet pavement, veered off the south shoulder of the highway and slammed into a tombstone in front of St. Joseph's Church.

Police reported the vehicle continued on and struck a flagpole before it hit the corner of the church and then overturned on the passenger side, pinning Havens beneath the automobile.

Saugerties Ambulance Service in charge of Clifford Jones responded to a call. The attendants on the ambulance attached lines to the vehicle and the overturned car and righted it before the serviceman was removed.

Ulster County Coroner Henry S. Hartley, who investigated the fatality with BCI Investigator David Wachtel, Sergeant R. J. Dempsey of the Kingston State Police and Trooper R. C. Schanck, pronounced Havens dead at the scene.

The other fatality which claimed the life of Chodaba occurred at 12:05 a. m. on Route 9W opposite Schmersahl's, Inc., parking area, according to Kingston State Police.

Investigators noted that a tractor-trailer operated by Richard J. Hitchcock, 30, of 26 to Simmons Drive, Saugerties, was reportedly entering Route 9W from the parking lot when the southbound car driven by Chodaba slammed into the side of the truck.

The impact was so forceful that the passenger vehicle was virtually hemmed in under the trailer, authorities reported.

Attendants on a Saugerties Ambulance Service vehicle used pry bars and other equipment to extricate the body of the Saugerties man.

Chodaba was pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Hartley, who investigated with BCI Investigators Roger Gardner and W. E. Wiedemann and Troopers Roy Martinussen and an ambulance.

G. R. Mack of the Kingston State Police reported the ambulance owned by Don's Ambulance Service and driven by William T. Walsh, 45, of Rosendale. The driver of the car was John Johnson, 43, of 10 Lipton Street, Kingston. Taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment were Hitchcock was not injured. Troopers also reported that the operator of the vehicle in which Havens was riding when he was killed, escaped injury. Troopers said action is pending as the result of the Glasco fatality.

According to Coroner Hartley both deaths were ruled accidental due to fractured skulls.

Another accident investigated by Kingston troopers occurred at 12:10 p. m. Wednesday on Route 32 at Grist Mill Road, and involved a car and an ambulance.

Trooper E. A. Zeboris reported the ambulance was owned by Don's Ambulance Service and driven by William T. Walsh, 45, of Rosendale. The driver of the car was John Johnson, 43, of 10 Lipton Street, Kingston. Taken to Benedictine Hospital for treatment were

25 Per Cent Hike Proposed For UCCC Administrators

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON

A 25 per cent salary increase over two years for the professional administrative personnel at Ulster County Community College is being proposed by four members of the County's Community College Committee. Brian White (R-Dist. 9), chairman, has filed a resolution with the Legislature calling for a 15 per cent increase for the first year and a 10 per cent increase the second.

The administrative personnel, represented by an organization known as OPAT, originally requested a 19 per cent increase for the first year. The proposal was made and agreed to by County Sheriff's Department, the college Board of Trustees with suggested increases ranging from eight to 12 per cent, negotiated before the county took over negotiations.

The county's proposed agreement to provide the 25 per cent two-year package has received OPAT approval.

The resolution will be presented to the entire legislature at its Thursday, Oct. 8 meeting. The measure is co-sponsored by Legislators William R. West (R-Dist. 12), Glenn A. DeBrosky (R-Dist. 7) and Richard Thornton (D-Dist. 1).

The county's negotiations with the UCCC Faculty Association, complicated by the faculty's charges of unfair labor practices, have yet to be resolved. The Legislature will also be asked to raise the salaries of the personnel in the Ulster Sheriff's Department, the college Board of Trustees with suggested increases ranging from eight to 12 per cent,

Clifford Snyder (R-Dist. 1), chairman of the Sheriff's Committee has filed a resolution in which he proposes the salary increases become effective today. Affected by the changes in salary grades are: matron, deputy sheriff and parking lot attendant, cook, pistol permit and identification officer, deputy sheriff, process server, assistant jailer, sergeant, head jailer and investigator.

The question of salary increases for the department personnel was given consideration by the Legislature once it was determined that members of the department could not be represented by organized labor. Study of the salary needs for the department has been in progress for more than a year, according to Snyder.

Among other resolutions to come before the county board are:

- The awarding of a $438,330 contract to John Arborio of Poughkeepsie for the reconstruction of Boices Lane.

- The giving of a $750 increase each to the County Judge, Surrogate and Family Court judges. The increases would be state funded at no cost to the county.

- The setting of a public hearing on a local law establishing standards of conduct for officers and employees of Ulster County.
- The setting of a public hearing on a local law to provide a partial exemption of real property owned by certain persons of limited income who are 65 years of age or over.

Along Highway 5 in Cambodia

Reds Ignore Rites, Hit Four Towns

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces ignored a Cambodian religious observance to launch attacks against four towns on Highway 5 connecting Phnom Penh with the nation's rice bowl, the Cambodian command said today.

Meanwhile, according to the Associated Press, American combat deaths in the Indochina war rose slightly last week to 63, and the number of American wounded went up to 344.

The battle deaths for the week were 11 higher than the previous week, as were the number of wounded. Since Jan. 1, 1961, 43,737 Americans have been killed in the war.

South Vietnamese military headquarters reported the number of government troops killed in action last week rose to 246, which was 51 more than during the previous week.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong battle deaths last week totaled 1,457 — 227 deaths higher than during the previous seven-day period, according to Allied communiques.

And in Paris, meanwhile, Communist negotiators called on the United States to accept their latest peace offer as the only way to end the Vietnam War speedily.

The peace package, offered Sept. 17, includes a cease-fire in return for a complete Allied withdrawal by June 30, 1971, and cooperation with the present Saigon government if its three top people are ousted.

The proposal was rejected by South Vietnam and although the U.S. said it is unacceptable, its negotiators promised to continue studying it.

Military spokesmen said the attacks Wednesday night were in a stretch of the road running from 30 miles northwest of the capital to 58 miles northwest of Phnom Penh. The rice crop is only weeks away from harvest.

"We must keep the highway open if we hope to have any sufficient rice crop at all," an agriculture ministry official said. "If we lose Highway 5, we may be faced with a very serious rice shortage in Phnom Penh."

Communist Aim

Western diplomats have theorized that may be just what the Communists have in mind.

The Communists attacked the towns of O Sandan, Taak Laak, Sala Lek Pram and Kompong Chhang. All were hit by mortar and automatic weapons fire.

The Cambodian command declined to say whether any of the towns were occupied by the Communists but said a number of Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were killed.

The attack on Highway 5 endangered the fifth of six key Cambodian roadways. The highway command listed Highways 2, 3, 4 and 6, all stretching out in spoke-like fashion from Phnom Penh, as either closed or insecure.

Three-Day Holiday

The Communists still held a three-mile stretch of Highway 4 linking the capital and the port of Kompong Som, Cambodian troops have made no efforts to open the road because of the three-day Pchum Ben holiday in which Cambodians pay homage to their ancestors.

Only Highway 1, linking Phnom Penh with Saigon, was considered secure.

Military sources in Saigon said the United States is considering withdrawing one of its three aircraft carriers in the Indochina area as part of the overall Vietnam cutback.

Informed American military sources said removal of the carrier from the South China Sea would be another in a series of unpublicized reductions ordered by President Nixon which have decreased the size of the U.S. 7th Fleet by more than 25 per cent in the past year.

Israel Unloads Double Blast at Kremlin

JERUSALEM (UPI)—Israel ushered in year 5731 on the Jewish calendar today with a double-barreled blast at the Soviet Union, scolding the Kremlin for its military role in Egypt and deploring its refusal to let Russian Jews emigrate to Israel.

Extra security police were posted throughout Jerusalem in case of trouble between Arabs mourning the death of Gamal Abdel Nasser and Jews gathered at the Wailing Wall, focal point of the New Year celebration, for the traditional blowing of the rams horn, a mark of repentance.

Official holiday statements appealed for the beginning of an "epoch of peace and regional cooperation in the area."

Peace Remote "Peace is, however, still remote," Mrs. Meir said. "The failure of Arab aggression was the same time contending with each other to revivify the world. "Their ugly gestures in doing so have been increasingly exposed and they have become more and more isolated in the world."

Premier Chou En-lai spoke Wednesday night at a reception and quoted Mao's contention that "danger of the world war still exists" but said "revolution is the main trend in the world today."

"The people desire revolution and the times are progressing," Chou said. "This is the irresistible current of history. It is absolutely impossible for one or two superpowers to succeed in their wild attempts to divide the world and rule the fate of mankind."

Your Ford Dealer is very sorry about the GM strike.

(sure he is)

These days we're seeing a lot of regular GM customers. Seems they want a car now—not next year sometime.

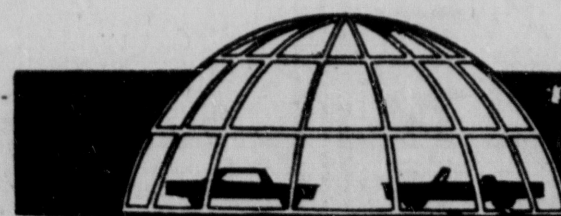

We love having them. And they love our frisky new Ford Pinto. Love our new '71 Torinos, LTDs, Mustangs, Mavericks.

Love the availability of all models, styles, colors. And the loving way we get our cars ready for on-time delivery.

But the clincher is when they find out we Ford Dealers are still with you—no matter what your mileage reads.

Our new customers are going to find out what our regular customers already know—

Grand Jury Indicts Esopus Youth and Others

KINGSTON — A 20-year-old Town of Esopus youth was named defendant in a multiple-count indictment that was included in a report of a grand jury handed up Wednesday to County Judge Raymond J. Mino.

The report contained 11 open indictments and four sealed indictments. Judge Mino directed that bench warrants be issued for the arrest of defendants named in the secret indictments and adjourned arraignment for all defendants until Oct. 14.

The Town of Esopus youth was Jeffrey T. Lismann of Park Lane, Port Ewen. He and two other youths had been arrested several weeks ago in connection with an investigation by Chief Investigator Harold T. Bowers of the staff of Sheriff William B. Martin and BCI investigators from the Kingston Zone Headquarters.

The charges stemmed from an investigation of a countless number of daylight burglaries in the Port Ewen, Sleightsburg, Ulster Park and other areas.

Others indicted yesterday were: Charles Timothy Straight, also known as C. Tim Straight and C. T. Straight—grand larceny third degree.

The cases of the other two youths taken into custody with Lismann were disposed of before Town Justice Charles D. Montalfo.

Lismann was accused in the indictment of four counts of burglary third degree, three counts of grand larceny third degree, three counts of criminal possession of stolen property in the second degree, and one count of criminal possession of stolen property in the third degree.

The charges stemmed from an investigation of a countless number of daylight burglaries in the Port Ewen, Sleightsburg, Ulster Park and other areas.

Others indicted yesterday were: Charles Timothy Straight, also known as C. Tim Straight and C. T. Straight—grand larceny third degree.

In Woman's Death

Migrant Faces Manslaughter

By WALTER S. CLARK

MILTON

A 41-year-old migrant apple picker from Florida was in the Ulster County jail today in lieu of $50,000 bail facing a charge of first degree manslaughter in the death of his common-law wife, according to Kingston State Police.

Freddie Gordon of Gifford, Fla., was taken into custody Wednesday following an investigation by troopers that stemmed from a report by the Ulster County Health Department that the victim, Mattie Crankfield, 38, also of Gifford, Fla., had been found dead in bed in the employee's quarters on the McManus farm in Milton on Tuesday.

Gordon and the woman, identified by authorities as the common-law wife of the defendant, had been employed during the season as apple pickers on the farm here.

State Police reported that a representative of the county health department notified authorities that the woman had been discovered dead in bed on Monday. Examination of the body reportedly disclosed evidence that the woman had been subject to a beating.

Senior BCI Investigator Edward Shannon, Investigator W. E. Wiedemann and a uniformed detail of state police conducted an investigation.

After questioning other migrant workers on the McManus farm, investigators picked up Gordon, who subsequently was booked on the manslaughter charge.

Arraigned before Kingston Town Justice Robert Ferrigan, Gordon entered a plea of innocent. The case was adjourned until Oct. 8 for preliminary hearing and bail was fixed at $50,000. In lieu of bail Gordon, who was accused of beating the woman, was committed to the county jail. Authorities said no weapon was used in the fatal assault.

It was reported the death of the woman was due to a ruptured liver.

Rifton Clears New Water Hurdle

By ALBERT J. CAWEIN

RIFTON

The residents of Rifton cleared another hurdle in their quest for a pressurized water system at Wednesday night's public hearing after which the Esopus Town Board unanimously approved the establishment of a Rifton Water District.

Prior to that an unofficial poll of the homeowners in the proposed district by Supervisor George H. Freer resulted in a 90 per cent vote in favor of the district. Those in opposition indicated that they had good wells and did not want to stand the added expense.

Christus J. Larios of Brinnier & Larios, consulting engineers for the proposal revealed that the costs could run from $74,500 to $77,000 and the total assessed valuation of the proposed district embracing about 30 homes will be $66,000. Without any grants or further extension of the district, the cost would come to $92 per $1,000 of assessed valuation.

Supervisor Freer pointed out that a 50 per cent federal grant was possible and this could conceivably cut the $92 unit cost in half.

The proposed district roughly includes Maple and Pine Streets, a portion of Post Road and Mill Road and a part of Main Street in the center of the proposed district.

Charles Locke, representative of the Farm Home Administration outlined the procedure of applying for federal funds. He noted that the water district must be established before applying for funds. He assured those in attendance that the district would receive the minimum of 35 per cent but he did not close the door on the possibility that the project could be eligible for the full 50 per cent grant.

John Powers, representing the Ulster County Health Department reviewed the problems that led up to the hearing. He reported on the incidence of polluted wells. He noted that some of those reported polluted have improved, but others have been found polluted by recent tests. He indicated that the conditions in that area could not guarantee a good, clean supply.

Under these circumstances the Health Department recommended that a pressurized water system be installed and a water district formed for financing and construction.

During the question and answer period the matter of individual treatment of water by the homeowner was questioned. Larios said that under the circumstances this was not feasible because these good wells could become polluted at any time, the supply might run out and the problem would still exist.

The project as outlined calls for the drilling of an artesian well. Tests inside the district indicate that this could be accomplished.

Supervisor Freer said the next step will be for the town attorney Louis Klein to incorporate the district. Late in June it was decided to start proceedings in the formation of a water district and a petition was filed bearing the names of property owners in excess of the 51 per cent required.

At that time residents of the Mill Road area embracing about 12 homes gave notice that they were also interested and would like to be included in the district plans.

The matter was first brought to the attention of the Town Board earlier this year when several wells were found to be polluted after tests by the Health Department.

Jewish New Year Starts Holy Season

KINGSTON Avenue, a reform synagogue held services today starting 10 a.m. with children's services in the afternoon. The annual Rosh Hashonah congregational reception sponsored by Rabbi and Mrs. Jonathan Eichhorn will be Friday evening in Rabbi Bloom Memorial Hall after the Brotherhood Shabbat Shuvah services. Mayor Francis R. Koenig has extended best wishes for the Jewish holidays on behalf of the City of Kingston noting that the message of the season "acknowledges the worth and value of every individual regardless of the position of life in which man may find himself."

Rabbi Schechtman of Congregation Ahavath Israel this week explained the significance of the holidays as follows:

"The Jewish New Year ushers in a 10 day period of repentance and atonement, and is observed with special religious services and the blowing of the shofar, a ram's horn. In order to arouse the people to repent for their transgressions, the shofar is sounded as a reminder of the piety of Abraham, who was considered the first Jew."

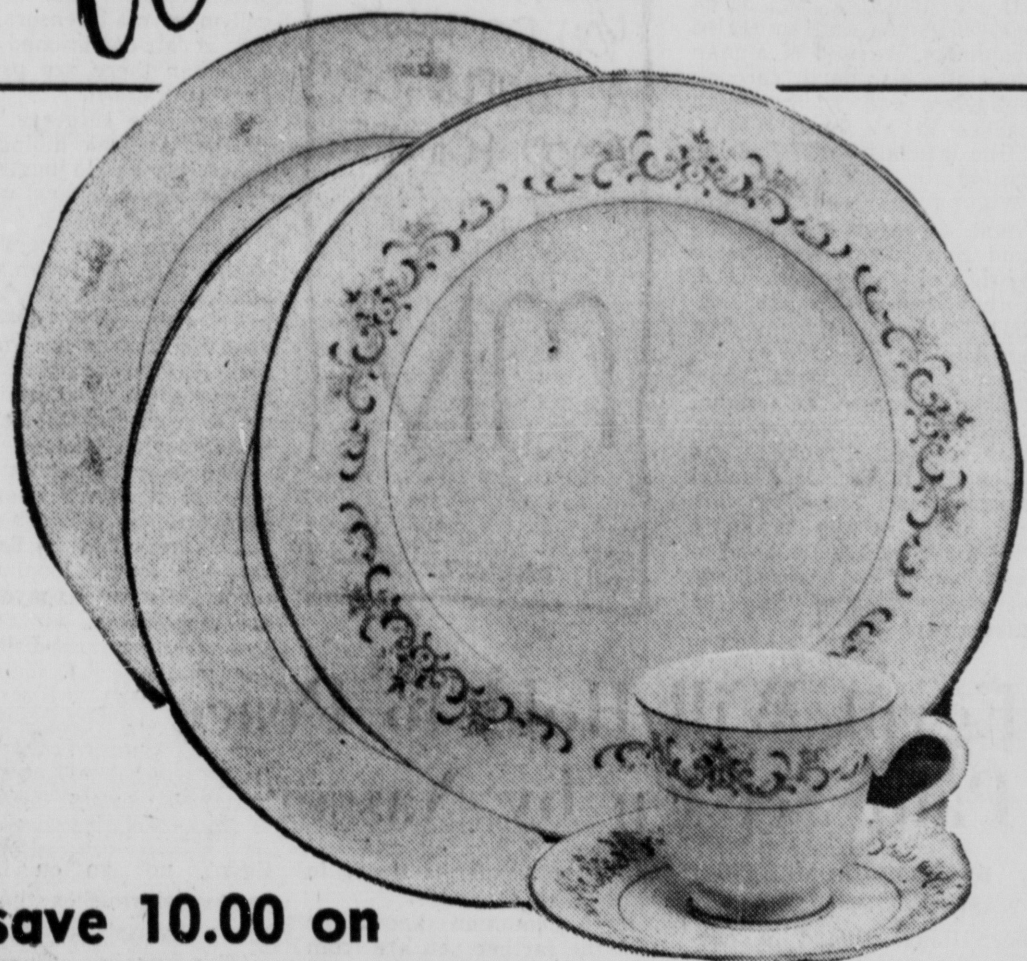

The horn of the ram became a symbol of the faith of our fathers, for whose merit we seek forgiveness.

"According to Jewish belief, Rosh Hashonah is a Day of Judgment, when the Divine Judge sits upon His seat of justice, and decrees the destiny of each human being for the coming year. According to Biblical History, this was the day when the world was created, which is the time that the Jewish calendar follows, and therefore this New Year begins the Jewish calendar year of 5731."

"Since the belief exists that before the Divine Judge the Books of man's existence lie open, and He inscribes each one in these books according to his merit, the symbolic prayer offered in the synagogues is: 'Inscribe us in the Books of Life, Blessing and Peace, together with all Thy people. Praised art Thou, O Lord, Who blesses His people with peace.'"

The 10-day period of repentance concludes with the Day of Atonement, Yom Kippur, which will begin Friday evening, Oct. 9.

Serious Blow to Peace

Three years ago, Gamal Abdel Nasser, by fanatical threats and dangerous actions, provoked Israel into launching the Six-Day War which humiliated Egypt and nearly cost Nasser his presidency.

Today his sudden death is called a serious blow to hopes for peace in the Mideast.

Nasser, it is now appreciated, was the most important, if not the only, force for moderation in the Arab world, the only leader commanding enough influence to make peace with the hated Israelis and have it accepted by the Arab masses.

Bloodied and beaten at every turn by the Israelis since 1948, Nasser seemed since the costly Six-Day War to be coming to a belated realization that some kind of permanent accommodation with Israel would have to be reached, despite his continued building up of Egypt's military strength with Soviet-supplied equipment.

The old word "charisma" has to be trotted out to describe Nasser, for there had to be something charismatic about a man who won and kept the near-adoration of the people even while his every scheme for the conquest of Israel and pan-Arab unity ended in failure.

The United Arab Republic, a union of Egypt and Syria launched by Nasser in 1958, fell apart when Syria seceded in 1961. Nasser's military expedition against the royalist regime in Yemen was a fiasco.

His only success was the nationalization of the Suez Canal in 1956, but even that would have brought another humiliating defeat to Egypt had not the United States intervened to force Britain, France and Israel to halt their invasion.

In Egypt, itself, however, Nasser has left a legacy that will be somewhat more lasting. After leading the army overthrow of the dissolute King Farouk in 1952, he began instituting sweeping domestic reforms, in particular, a redistribution of land to the peasants.

In the form of the Aswan High Dam, Nasser has, in fact, left a monument to himself that will be as enduring as the works of the ancient pharaohs.

But Nasser never solved or even really attacked Egypt's problem of too many people multiplying too fast. How much more could he have accomplished if he had not devoted so much of Egypt's scant resources and so much of its people's energy to military adventures?

He has left a country in hock up to its neck to the Russians and a Mideast that continues to teeter on the brink of another bloody confrontation.

Newspaper Week

During the period of October 4 to 10, the United States will observe National Newspaper Week. The theme this year is, "American Newspapers—200 Years of Freedom—1770's to 1970's." Just to read those words denoting the theme of Newspaper Week should be enough to warm the heart of Mr. Average U. S. Citizen. During the year, editors duly take notice of many worthy and memorable observances. But, they cannot be blamed for calling attention, with a certain degree of pride, as well as humbleness, to their own special week.

The fact that after 200 years of personal liberty under representative government still prevails is due, in no small part, to the "eternal vigilance" of a free press. The community newspaper, and there are over 10,000 of them, is an institution that lends permanence and tangibility to the individual rights as nothing else can.

Every nation has its national observances. In most, however, there is no occasion to celebrate a National Newspaper Week. Where there is no free press, the less said about the newspaper, the better. Yes, National Newspaper Week is a heartwarming reminder that we have lived in freedom for 200 years and that the community newspaper has played no small role in preserving that freedom.

Edwin Saxton, a special consultant to the Republican National Committee on the black vote, is authority for the statement that the Nixon administration has done better for blacks than either of its predecessors. He looks for a substantial "sophisticated" black vote. One reason—65 per cent more blacks in responsible government positions.

The Palestine guerrillas are now after the scalp of King Hussein, who gave them space in Jordan, albeit reluctantly, for their base. They called for formation of a national authority representing "the force of the people" to run the country and purge antiguerrilla elements from the army, the state and police. They just stopped short of calling for Hussein's head.

For the first time, all branches of the military service will handle deserters and absentees under a new unified system. The new rule is that anyone is classified a deserter who is absent without leave for more than 30 days, or when guilty of desertion, or seeks asylum in a foreign country. There will be no room for doubt in the new regulations.

A New Game

David Lawrence Says Great Uneasiness Over Red Sub Base in Cuba

WASHINGTON — The United States today has only one potential enemy of military importance — the Soviet Union. The Moscow government, however, professes to be interested in peace and in recent months has been engaging in talks on the limitation of strategic arms. During the time these diplomatic conversations have been going on, constructive efforts were being made by both the Moscow regime and the Nixon administration to work out a peace agreement between Israel and its Arab neighbors.

While the death of President Nasser of Egypt naturally raises questions as to what his successor might do, the fact remains that Moscow will direct the new president in Cairo in making any policies bearing on relations with other Middle East countries. The simple truth is that the Soviet Union has more to gain than lose by bolstering the movement for peace in the Mideast.

Unfortunately, a dark cloud has appeared on the horizon in this hemisphere by the disclosure that Cuba is permitting the Soviets to build a submarine base on its shores.

Today, therefore, the concern in Congress is not so much what might happen in the Middle East, but what is likely to be the outcome of the new challenge to American power and prestige by the construction of a permanent base for Soviet submarines from which nuclear missiles can be launched at any time to destroy American cities at relatively short distances from Cuba.

The United States has taken a deep interest in Middle East affairs and is anxious to be of help in preventing the outbreak of another war in that region. But the President's trip to Southern Europe and the emphasis given to the presence of the U.S. Navy's Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean cannot have been designed to convey a possible threat of American participation in the Mideast conflict. Rather, it was intended to tell the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe that the United States will continue to maintain a naval force in the Mediterranean to offset the strong Russian fleet which has been built up in those waters in the last two years.

The real point of anxiety is Cuba. The submarine base relates to the future not merely of the United States but of all Latin America. It is apparent from the statements made by members of Congress of both parties and by the administration that everything possible will be done to dissuade Cuba from allowing the base to be established. A trade boycott as well as economic sanctions may be imposed by the countries of central and South America, so that, directly and indirectly, products will be withheld from Cuba unless the Havana government shows that it shares the peaceful purposes of all nations in the hemisphere. The only way for Cuba to prove this is by giving up the submarine base.

The Soviet Union, of course, has a right to seek bases anywhere. But for Cuba to permit a permanent base for submarines from which nuclear weapons can be fired to be located so close to the American seacoast will be taken as an indication that the Castro government doesn't intend to maintain friendly relations with its neighbors.

The United States, by treaty, has a naval base on the island of Cuba and could, if it wished, send ships and planes to dismantle the new submarine installations. But it is likely that no such step would be taken, at least until all efforts have been made through the process of negotiation to persuade the Havana government that the time has come to stop any foreign government from using Cuban territory for possible military operations against nearby countries. The very presence of such a base is construed as a symbol of hostility.

It is the Soviet military entry into Cuba rather than the Middle East situation which is causing the greatest amount of uneasiness today in official circles. Members of Congress, irrespective of party, are showing much concern and a readiness to back the President in whatever action may be deemed necessary to deal with both the Havana government and the Moscow government in reaching an early settlement, lest the crisis become a real danger to world peace.

Gore on Skids of Own Making

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
NEA Washington Correspondent
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (NEA) — You come here with reports that veteran Sen. Albert Gore is in deep trouble, and you find it all true.

Indeed, some of the things he's doing to try to retrieve the situation seem to be contributing to the forward motion of his young Republican opponent, Rep. William E. Brock III.

Caution in forecasting the Nov. 3 outcome probably could be cast off were it not for the fighting heart and the resourcefulness of Gore, the self-styled "old gray fox" who has had three Senate terms and has represented Tennessee in Washington for 32 years.

The accumulation of barnacles on his 62-year-old hide, however, is weighing him down badly.

Symbol of Vice President Agnew's "radical liberal" in a state that in 1968 gave 73 per cent of its presidential vote to Richard Nixon and George Wallace combined.

It's no wonder a Brock friend spins his car around Tennessee highways bearing a roof sign emblazoning Gore's name in capital letters among such other "birds of a feather" as Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas, George McGovern of South Dakota, Edward M.

Kennedy of Massachusetts and Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota.

To hear some of Gore's own sympathizers tell it, the hard part is not just that he has been consistently anti-Vietnam in a fairly hawkish state, but that he has managed to get himself linked with Dr. Benjamin Spock, Yale Chaplain William Coffin and campus revolts in the process.

As for his peace stance were not trouble enough, he voted against two southern federal judges, Clement Haynsworth and G. Harrold Carswell, for nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Then there is Gore's personality, which evidently is wearing thin with many Tennessee voters after three decades. Someone who looked at his earlier television spots, prepared by the touted Charles Guggenheim, decided that what really came through was arrogance. Gore is a practicing loner, reluctant to take counsel, tending to talk down.

It all adds to a portrait that not only Agnew but some of Gore's backers argue may be out of place in today's Tennessee. Said one: "I think it's very likely true that Albert is more at home with the people at the New York Times than those at the Chattanooga Times."

The senator grasps his present plight, calling this the "fiercest" ideological test

Tennessee has known since Andrew Johnson's time a century ago. But one has to question how well he is geared for the fight, even granting his tough heart.

When Ted Kennedy hosted a $500-a-plate dinner at his Virginia home to raise $40,000 for Gore from key Democrats, it only added another barnacle. Kennedy is put with Dr. Spock in Tennessee.

Gore's move to greet Agnew at the airport in Memphis, done in the name of "civility and respect," was taken by many as the desperation tactic of a man fearing defeat. Next day, in a chance encounter with Agnew's departing motorcade, the senator allowed himself to be goaded into popping out of his car to wave goodbye.

When a virtual unknown, Hudley Crockett, former press secretary to Gov. Buford Ellington, stunned Gore out of his socks by polling 45 per cent of this summer's Democratic primary vote, the senator in alarm reversed his field to vote against the McGovern-Hatfield "end the war" proposal. He now limply excuses this by saying he favors a negotiated settlement in Vietnam and that the proposal's dated withdrawal time would have worked against that prospect.

The sure judgments born of confidence are missing from these catch-up endeavors by the "old gray fox."

Jack Anderson Says Prison at Raiford, Fla., Is Literal Chamber of Horrors

WASHINGTON—Florida has opened the gates of its notorious state prison at Raiford to this column.

My associate, Les Whitten, was taken on an unprecedented, backroom tour by an ex-convict, who dared to come back and point out the horrors. They found shocking conditions that, according to the evidence in our files, aren't unique to Florida but exist in prisons throughout the country.

As Florida's prison czar Dr. James Bax had promised, the authorities allowed Whitten to speak privately with prisoners and to dig deeply into prison records. Bax also gave his word there would be no retribution against prisoners. This may be a more difficult promise for him to keep from his distant office in Tallahassee.

Several inmates whispered out their woes or pressed written accounts of their experiences into Whitten's hands. Already, reports have reached us of ugly retaliation against those whom the guards suspected of giving information.

Flint-faced guards also glowered at Whitten's guide, John Ricardo, a handsome, 34-year-old ex-burglar, whose former cellmates hissed a warning through bars that, in reprisal, he might be "set up" and arrested on a phony charge by friends of prison officers.

The most depressing place was the hospital where Whitten saw patients lying in the halls like beggars in Bedlam, trying to get a doctor's attention. Cockroaches skittered up the walls, and ants filed busily to food spots on the floor.

In an earlier column, based upon affidavits and smuggled documents, we told of a man who lost his hand through negligence and another with roaches in his head wound. Prison officials scoffed at the stories.

Whitten searched out Milt Frank, a convict with half his hand gone, who swore that a medical technician, J. J. Murphy, had refused him adequate treatment. Murphy, in a long interview, denied it.

The prison records show Murphy diagnosed the swollen, gangrenous hand as a fracture and sent Frank to the University of Florida hospital for treatment. There, the records show it was 40 hours after a fall caused his hand to swell before he reached the university hospital only 35 miles away.

Whitten also talked to Tony Antone who, despite fear of retribution, said roaches had crawled down his face twice after his head bandages were unwound. On one occasion, he swore, hospital personnel had to pick the insects out of the wound.

As Whitten threaded his way through the hospital hallway, a sallow-faced patient, his eyes like tiny gasoline flames, reached from his wheelchair and tugged Whitten's sleeve.

"Gradually, I'm losing the use of my legs," whispered Daniel Benitez, 32, hoarsely. "It's driving me crazy." Paralyzed from the waist down by a bullet, Benitez has needed physical therapy and braces for a year. But the hospital hasn't found money even to buy him a urine bag that doesn't leak.

Another paraplegic, Leroy Toombs, 21, wheeled up and pleaded: "I could walk if I had some braces." The once husky Negro, now down to 95 pounds, lifted his pajama pants to show a pair of pipe-stem legs.

Still another fragile man, William Morgan, 51, bedridden for 11 years, exposed an abdomen which was a mass of surgical scars. He is literally held together by a ramshackle brace which has broken down 15 times and should have been replaced long ago. It is also wearing a hole in his back.

Egypt Will Hold to Peace Path Set Up by Nasser

By RAY CROMLEY

WASHINGTON (NEA) — These things should be considered as Gamal Abdel Nasser is buried and new men take over in Egypt:

Whatever else he was, Nasser was a man who closely sensed the mood of his people (or at least its leaders) and of the other Arab countries.

Politically, he knew how far he could go and what directions were acceptable to Arab sentiment.

If Nasser read correctly, then, barring a coup of other political judo by some minority group such as the "young officers," Egypt in the period ahead will follow the path that Nasser has set up in recent weeks.

For the pressures on Nasser, as he personally saw them, were pressures for peace.

As noted before in this column, many top-ranking and influential Egyptians today feel that whatever the rights and wrongs of the Israeli war, Egypt is being held back from its own progress by preoccupation with that war. This sentiment spreads through the senior military, political, business, agricultural and academic circles. It is shared by many young intellectuals. The farmers want more money in their pockets, not war.

So barring an overthrow by radicals of the extreme left or right, the same pressures will bear on Nasser's successor for an honorable peace.

But make no mistake about it. Whatever man succeeds Nasser permanently will talk tough in public — as Nasser did.

It is known by this reporter that Vice President Anwar Sadat shares Nasser's views on peace with Israel. Sadat has, at least temporarily, assumed the role of president of Egypt.

At the same time, it is quite possible that Egypt's leadership of the Arab bloc will slide. For Nasser had some personal power — magnetism if you will — to lead the Arab countries into some semblance of unity, however slight at times.

Witness the agreement over the Palestinian guerrillas in Jordan.

Witness, too, the agreement for a cease-fire with Israel and the moves for a settlement.

Now the pressure for a belligerent leader is strong in some Arab countries.

It is common knowledge that the farther you are from a battle scene the more belligerently you can talk.

But, basically, decisions must be made by the men, armies and countries on the scene.

And despite its weaknesses, Egypt is still the major Arab country on the scene, and in practice, if not in speeches, Jordan is its closest ally.

No countries except Lebanon, Jordan, Syria and Egypt border on Israel. Lebanon is too weak to take leadership. King Hussein has his hands full at home.

Syria must be discounted because of its poor showing in the Jordanian guerrilla-King Hussein fight and because it backed Egypt so poorly in the six-day war with Israel in 1967. Syria did not come actively to Egypt's defense when the Israeli forces were driving the Egyptians back. Instead, the Syrians basically looked only to their own defenses.

So it would seem logical that whatever leadership appears in the Arab countries, if it is to be realistic, must come from Egypt.

And, as noted above, the Egyptians are tired of the war and want to go about building prisoners trying to tell my associate their stories, but one with compelling eyes hissed: "Go in there." They entered a crowded ward just as the hospital's medical director, Dr. D. G. Limcangco, bustled out.

In a bed, his knee swollen with blood like an enormous beet, was David Rich, 24, a hemophiliac or "bleeder." For the past four days, he had lain in the hospital lobby suffering the hideous agony of the bleeder and calling for some doctor to ease his anguish. His medical record shows he threatened to stab himself in the knee to relieve the pressure from the internal bleeding.

Dr. Limcangco, learning that Whitten was heading in Rich's direction, had rushed up and ordered Demerol at last to kill his pain and to quiet his cries. The suffering Rich, an air-conditioning expert on the outside, was jailed for selling Demerol, the same addictive drug which alone gives him relief. Yet neither addiction nor hemophilia can be properly treated in this Dante's hell of a hospital, as its superintendent, Don Hassfurther, admitted.

In contrast with the hospital, the administration building is paneled, air-conditioned and richly furnished. The warden's suite rivals President Nixon's office. Hundreds of thousands of dollars, intended to improve the prison, have been spent upon the comforts of prison officials.

In fairness, these expenditures were made before Governor Claude Kirk came to power and began preaching prison reform. But there are still more mail censors, working in air-conditioned splendor, than there are psychologists at Raiford.

There is a shortage, too, of guards. At peak dining hours Hassfurther has to juggle guard details like a general who has run out of divisions.

Correctional officers make about $417 a month, tower guards only $385. Zoo keepers in Florida make $465. The need for guards is so critical that Hassfurther can't afford to give them psychiatric tests nor to worry whether they attended high school.

Who is to blame for conditions at Raiford? Hassfurther seems to be doing his best. Dr. James Bax, in Tallahassee, has fought for improvements. It's the taxpayers who are responsible.

Egypt, not go on fighting endless skirmishes that may help a "cause" but not Egypt. (This again assumes no coup in Cairo.)

But if leadership does not come out of Egypt, and if moderate Arab leadership does not appear in some other country, what is most likely is that what Arab unity there is will disappear.

There will be a fight for power between the Syrians, the Iraqi, the Tunisians, the Algerians, the Saudi Arabians and the Egyptians with the Sudanese and Palestine commandos in the thick of things.

A new belligerent leadership could hold back peace discussions, give new power to the commandos, and increase friction.

But it is difficult to see a belligerent leader in Tunisia, Algeria or Syria forcing the Egyptians or the Jordanians into a war not of their own choosing.

And past history indicates that the Syrians, though sharing a short border with Israel, will act very prudently, indeed, however tough their talk. Making a short tentative advance into harassed Jordan is one thing. Making an attack on Israel is quite another.

Pearl Harbor Is Revisited

By RALPH NOVAK

NEW YORK (NEA)—On a bright Sunday morning, almost 29 years ago, Cmdr. Mitsuo Fuchida, flight leader for an armada of 360 Japanese planes, directed the attack that surprised and nearly annihilated the American fleet at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

On a bright Tuesday morning in September 1970, Mitsuo Fuchida sits in a New York hotel. He smiles ingratiatingly and answers questions about his age, whether or not he was married when the war started, how many medals Japan awarded him and what he thinks of American preparedness against a surprise attack today.

We no longer remember the Alamo, nor the Maine. Now we have forgotten if not forgiven Pearl Harbor, as the Japanese have forgotten if not forgiven Hiroshima.

Hatreds and ambitions have been rearranged, and that war is over. Arnold Palmer and Babe Ruth are heroes in Japan. The Japanese—Japs and Nips no more—have shown they can be more American than Americans are, can build a better tape recorder and camera, if not a better mousetrap.

And Mitsuo Fuchida, it turns out, is not a leering fiend who spent all World War II gunning down helpless American pilots hanging from parachutes. He is a soft-spoken, quiet man with a sad smile, who has become a Presbyterian minister.

Fuchida and Minoru Genda, the Japanese strategist who planned the Pearl Harbor raid, were in New York for the premiere of "Tora, Tora, Tora," 20th Century-Fox's semidocumentary film attempt to put the attack into historical perspective.

Neither Fuchida nor Genda was involved in the decision to go to war against the United States, but neither do they make any apologies. Both were career military men who did what they were told, did it well and not without satisfaction.

"On the day of the attack I wasn't thinking about whether it was right or wrong," Fuchida said. "All I cared about was being over the target at 8 a.m. I wanted to do well for my country and when it was over I was proud."

Both Fuchida and Genda had encountered anti-Japanese discrimination in California in visits before the war but they were not passionately anti-American.

"In war you hate your enemies because they are your enemies," Genda said. "I hated the Americans because I had been taught that they were our enemies."

Across the hotel banquet room from Genda was Rear Adm. (ret.) William W. Outerbridge, a supporting element in Fox's promotional strategy. He was commander of the American destroyer that sank a mid-1940s Japanese submarine in Pearl Harbor more than an hour before Fuchida's planes roared into the Sunday morning serenity.

Outerbridge agreed with his former enemy that bygones have been bygones for a long time.

"Hell, we were professionals," he said. "It was their business to fight us the way it was our business to fight them. There wasn't any room for personal hatred in it."

An American sergeant led to Fuchida's conversion to Christianity. The sergeant, his plane shot down in the Doolittle raid on Tokyo, spent the rest of the war in a Japanese prison camp reading the Bible. When the war ended he stayed in Japan as a missionary and wrote the pamphlets that gave abortions dropped from eight per 100,000 births to three per 100,000 last year.

Stewart estimated there would be 50,000 legal abortions this year.

After the war, Genda, now a military affairs writer and member of Japan's national legislature, rose to four-star general in the Japanese Self-Defense Air Force. He received an American Legion of Merit in 1965 for his service in that assignment and his contributions to American-Japanese relations.

Genda has said that Japan's greatest mistake at Pearl Harbor was not following up on the air raid by occupying Hawaii.

"If we had then gone on to the west coast of the United States, we might have won the war," he contended.

That the Japanese didn't pursue their advantage and perhaps win the war becomes less and less important as the conflicts, the ideals and the people responsible for World War II recede into history.

So, too, recedes the memory of Pearl Harbor, a memory that once bled, then festered and has now healed, leaving a scar that becomes more and more faint, less and less painful.

Abortion Deaths Dip

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

Deaths from abortions have declined sharply in California since the state liberalized abortion laws three years ago, a University of California Medical School professor reports.

Dr. Gary Stewart told 3,000 physicians attending the American Academy of General Practice convention Tuesday that California's death rate from abortions dropped from eight per 100,000 births to three per 100,000 last year.

Stewart estimated there would be 50,000 legal abortions this year.

$74,200 Additional to City For Sewage Treatment Plant

KINGSTON — An additional $74,200 federal grant for the state-mandated sewage treatment plant for the City of Kingston, has been announced today by Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.

It is anticipated that the state will probably come forth with a similar amount in that the state and federal governments each share 30 per cent of the total cost. The city is responsible for the remaining 40 per cent.

To date, the state has already made a $742,057 grant and the federal government one in the amount of $742,050 toward a total eligible cost of $2,473,500.

Fish said the total federal share is $816,250 and the project cost has been set at $2,534,000. The congressman also explained that the state's Pure Waters Act, under which the grants are provided, is designed to dovetail with the federal grant money available.

At the time of the state's Pure Waters grant to the city in June, Mayor Francis R. Koenig expressed concern over the city's share of the cost.

With regard to the city's share of the cost of the project, Assemblyman H. Clark Bell said, "We all have to work toward the war on pollution. It is often difficult on the communities concerned. That is why the Pure Waters Act was enacted on a shared cost basis which is far better than the state mandating the project and the communities having to pay 100 per cent of the cost.

With the additional $74,200 coming from the federal government and a probable $74,000 more from the state, the city's share may be reduced by about $148,000 to about $900,000.

The new facility is to be located adjacent to the city's primary sewage treatment plant on the Strand. It will provide for the expansion of that plant by adding aeration tanks, final settling tanks, control building, sludge thickener and chlorine contact plant.

The treatment plant will serve almost the entire City of Kingston and some outlying areas. It will have a capacity of 4.8 million gallons a day.

The outlying area generally referred to is the Town of Esopus.

CHARGED IN TRUCK EXPLOSION — Police have charged three persons with second degree murder after a sniper's bullet exploded 21 tons of dynamite aboard a truck on a mission for a firm struck by the teamsters union. The blast, which killed the truck driver, ripped a 100-foot crater in a highway and disintegrated the vehicle. Those charged are Gerald Lee Bowden, 27 (L) his wife Sharron Lynn, 27 (C) and Bobby Lee Shuler, 29 (R) all of Joplin, Mo. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

MJM Students Plan Car Wash

KINGSTON — Students at Myron J. Michael Junior High School have completed plans for a car wash to be held Saturday, Oct. 3 at the school's parking lot.

Area residents are urged to have their cars washed by the students between 10 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Proceeds from the car wash will be used to defray expenses of publishing the M. J. M. yearbook entitled Michael's Memories.

Pravda Charges 'Racket' by U. S. Over Cuban Base

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda accused the United States Wednesday of raising a "racket" over alleged Soviet plans to build a strategic naval base in Cuba. Pravda charged that this is part of a campaign to create "military hysteria" among Americans. Pravda did not deny that the bases are being built, but chided Washington for organizing "too light-mindedly noisy propaganda campaigns."

The newspaper apparently was referring to a statement by a White House official last week that the United States would view "with utmost seriousness" the installation of a Soviet naval base in Cuba.

Senate Ready to Approve Missing Link in the EEOC

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Despite bitter southern protests and opposition from the Nixon administration, the Senate is ready to approve a missing link in the 1964 Civil Rights Act—tough enforcement powers for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

Final passage was expected on a bill designed to give the EEOC power to issue "cease and desist" orders against firms and unions which refuse to halt discriminatory hiring and promotion practices. At present the commission only can try to end job discrimination by talking to the parties involved.

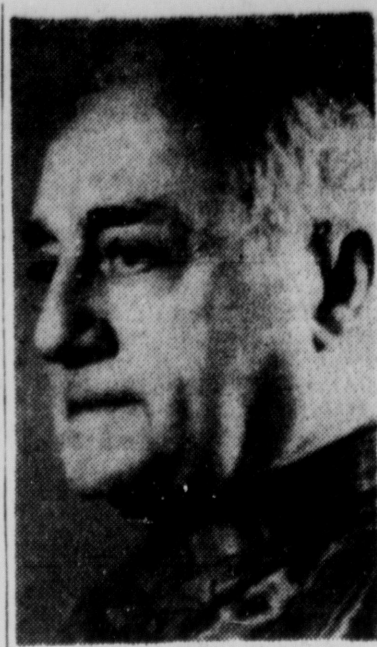

Although Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., vowed a last-ditch attempt to make changes in the bill, the Senate was expected to turn back easily any weakening of the tough enforcement provisions.

The bill also would broaden coverage of the employment provisions of the 1964 Civil Rights Act by including about 9.5 million additional workers in firms or unions with eight or more employees or members. The act now covers only unions and firms with 25 or more employees.

Another 9.5 million employees would be covered by extending provisions of the act, for the first time, to state and local government employees.

The key vote came Wednesday when the Senate rejected 41 to 26 an amendment which would have killed the provision granting EEOC "cease and desist" powers.

Jury Probing Wisconsin Blast Indicts Four

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating a fatal University of Wisconsin bombing has indicted four young men on the FBI's list of most-wanted fugitives.

U.S. Atty. John O. Olson said there had been no word on the men's whereabouts since two of them, Karleton Armstrong, 23, and his brother, Dwight, 19, were believed seen Sept. 3 in New York State. The others, Leo F. Burt, 22, and David S. Fine, 18, were last reported in Ontario.

A physics researcher was killed and three other persons injured when an explosion shattered the university's six-story Army Mathematics Research Center Aug. 24.

Rte. 209 Traffic Is Rerouted After Accident

ELLENVILLE — Truck traffic on Route 209 through this village was detoured and passenger cars were directed along a one-way route on the highway for about seven hours Wednesday, after a Bloomingburg Block truck snapped off a utility pole causing wires and cables to drop within a few feet of the pavement.

Police said line crews from the utility companies involved worked from after 9:30 a. m. until late afternoon replacing the wires and cables. Meanwhile, police noted, truck traffic was re-routed through the property of the Channel Master Corporation and passenger cars moved slowly along a one-way lane until repairs were made.

Authorities said there were no injuries. The name of the truck driver was not immediately available.

Manson Gets Agitated at Murder Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles M. Manson, silent through much of the 16-week-old Sharon Tate murder trial, cried out Wednesday, "Man, it's all prosecution; there's no defense here."

Manson became agitated as witness Juan Flynn, 25, a one-time Manson follower told how the hippie clan leader once suggested they get Flynn's relatives and "cut them all to pieces." The suggestion was dropped immediately, Flynn said.

Flynn, a curly-haired actor, added the incident at the end of his third day of testimony about the leader of a hippie-style family.

Manson, 35, is on trial with three women followers charged with murder-conspiracy in the August 1969 knifing-gunshot slayings of the blonde actress and six others.

Several times, Superior Court Judge Charles Older cautioned the jury to consider segments of Flynn's testimony against Manson only—not the other defendants.

Since Manson and the others were arrested, Flynn said he has received death threats by mail, phone and in person from still loyal members of the family trying to discourage his testimony.

Drop Charges Against Man

KINGSTON — Charges of grand larceny third degree against a Cottekill man were dropped Wednesday on recommendation of the complainant and motion of the district attorney's office.

Arthur D. Goodman of Cottekill had been arrested for an alleged threat on the life of Dr. Donald Abernathy, a Kingston dentist, through the alleged extortion of $400 on Oct. 30, 1969.

Goodman appeared before Town of Ulster Justice Arthur A. Reilly Wednesday, represented by Hubert A. Richter. The charges were dropped on the recommendation of Dr. Abernathy and by motion of the district attorney due to the reluctance of the main witness to testify. Case was dismissed.

Price Correction

In the advertisement appearing in Wednesday's Daily Freeman of the Gov. Clinton Market, 777 Broadway, the price of fresh cut chicken livers should have been 69c lb. instead of 59c.

EMERGES FROM CAVE — Yugoslav amateur speleologist Milutin Velpkovic talks to newsmen in Kopajkosafa, Yugoslavia, after emerging from a mountain cave where he spent 463 days underground alone. Velpkovic, who came out on the eve of his 36th birthday, lived on canned goods. His "home" for 1,111 hours had lights and electricity from a power generator brought in for the occasion. Yugoslavs claimed the new world underground endurance record. The former record was held by Briton David Laafferty who spent 130 days below ground. (UPI CABLEPHOTO)

Judge's Ruling May Mean Shift In Drug Arrests

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (UPI) — A city judge's ruling that arresting officers must witness the commission of a crime could force major changes in the method of handling narcotics suspects at the International Rainbow Bridge.

Chief City Judge John T. DeSantis dismissed charges against four persons Wednesday on the ground they were arrested by city police who did not witness the commission of a crime.

The four were taken into custody by U. S. Customs inspectors at the Rainbow Bridge and following a normal procedure were turned over to city police.

They were identified as Irma Cruz, 23, of New York City; Ruth Knispel, 22, of Elyria, Ohio; Michael Sanchez, 24, of New York City, and his wife, Angela, 21.

They had been charged with possession of dangerous drugs. Niagara County Dist. Atty. Aldo DiFlorio and Finbar J. Murphy, special agent-in-charge of the Buffalo Customs office, said they would study DeSantis' ruling before commenting on the case.

Some 30 similar cases which could be affected by the ruling are currently on the City Court docket.

DiFlorio said he has recommended that customs inspectors themselves make the arrests until legal questions are resolved.

Customs agents in the past have maintained they do not have a large enough staff to handle the cases, which would often involve lengthy court proceedings.

Open House Of New Paltz Drug Council

NEW PALTZ — New Paltz Narcotics Guidance Council will officially open its program and show off its new quarters at an open house this Sunday from 2-4 p.m., according to recent announcement.

The Council, operating out of newly rented and renovated quarters at 43 Church Street in the village, will be functioning in permanent quarters for the first time since its inception earlier this year.

Refreshments will be served at the gathering and council workers and members will be on hand to explain the group's function and to detail its facilities.

A Baby Girl For Natalie Wood

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Actress Natalie Wood has given birth to a baby girl, it was announced today by Cedars of Lebanon hospital.

A hospital spokesman said the child was born Tuesday and both mother and daughter are "doing fine."

Miss Wood is married to English actor-director Richard Gregson. It was her first child, tied inside his car.

Patrolman Shot to Death By Gun Blast

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — A police patrolman was shot to death with a shotgun blast early today fired by a man he had stopped for questioning.

Police said John Burke, 27, had gotten out of his station wagon to question two Negro men.

Burke had been a policeman for about two years. He was one of the first officers to join the 11 member K-9 corps—policemen who patrol with trained dogs—when it was established this year. He made the corps' first arrest on April 23 when he and his dog flushed a burglary suspect from behind a store counter.

When today's shooting occurred he had left his dog, Thor, Gregson. It was her first child, tied inside his car.

Claims Liberation Drive Is Contrary to the Gospel

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Efforts by members of the women's liberation movement to downgrade woman's traditional role as homemaker and mother are contrary to the Gospel, says the head of the Mormon Church's principal women's organization.

Today's "liberated" woman believes it "is her privilege to live and to do as she chooses, unhampered by laws regarded as antiquated," Belle S. Spafford, president of the Relief Society of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, said Wednesday.

Mrs. Spafford, immediate past president of the U.S. National Council of Women, told a Relief Society meeting some women's liberation advocates consider moral codes "such as those that relate to child bearing, restraints of religious teachings and social traditions which glorify the role of woman as a mother and homemaker" outmoded.

Such ideas, she said, are "not in harmony with God's divine plan for his daughters."

The Relief Society meeting, which continues today, precedes the Mormon Church's 140th semi-annual general conference, which opens Friday and continues through Sunday.

Elder Thomas S. Monson of the church's Council of the Twelve told Relief Society members, "Equality of rights does not imply identity of functions."

Monson quoted from a national magazine article which said, "Women don't need to be mothers any more than they need spaghetti."

"Such idiotic and blatantly false philosophy must not be entertained or believed," Monson said.

Three States Represented 450 at Heart, LPN Seminar

ACCORD
A total of 450 participants from three states attended an educational program for Licensed Practical Nurses sponsored by the Mid-Hudson Heart Association in conjunction with the Dutchess County Heart Association and the Orange-Sullivan Heart Association at the Granit Hotel, Accord, Tuesday.

ordinator of Practical Nursing, Dutchess County BOCES, spoke on the hospital phase of The Cardiac Patient, a two-part symposium. Miss Chartier said: "The patient has two rights. One is to be exempt from his customary responsibilities during his illness, the right to obtain help so that he can get well."

Miss Chartier, in discussing the role of the nurse in the coronary care unit, said, "It is difficult to find an aspect of nursing more challenging than that in the coronary care unit."

Mrs. Judy Murray, a visiting nurse in the Ulster County Health Department, who works in the southern tier of Ulster

County, replaced Kathleen Kuehn, P.H.N., who was originally scheduled to speak on part two of the symposium, which dealt with rehabilitation of The Cardiac Patient.

Mrs. Murray described Rehabilitation of the cardiac patient as "... a process by which the patient is returned, realistically, to emotional, physical and economical usefulness."

Dr. Marvin Goldstein, president of the Dutchess County Heart Chapter, headed a panel on the topic, A Day in a Coronary Care Unit. Others on the panel were Mrs. Alvenia Straka, L.P.N., staff nurse of the Coronary Care Unit, Vassar Brothers

Hospital, and Mrs. Catherine Stickley, R.N.

The Rev. Paul Hoyt and Calvin Brueckner of the Kerhonkson Rescue Squad and Miss Bower demonstrated Cardiopulmonary Resuscitation for attending LPNs.

One of the first teaching days of its kind for LPNs sponsored by the Heart Associations covering Columbia, Greene, Ulster, Dutchess, Orange, Sullivan and northern Putnam Counties, the topic for which was A Challenge to the L.P.N. in Cardiac Patient Care, all the participants, LPNs and students alike, were enabled to accumulate credits toward certificates and advanced licensing.

Tells Nasser Views on Israel, U.S., Arab World

Editor's Note: Miles Copeland, former U.S. diplomat and author of "The Game of Nations," had been a close friend of the late Gamal Abdel Nasser since 1953, when Copeland first served as a consultant to the Egyptian government. He still visits Egypt every two months and held day-long talks with the Egyptian president in April. In this article Copeland describes some of Nasser's attitudes toward Israel, the United States and the Arab world.

By MILES COPELAND

Written for
The Associated Press
LONDON (AP) — "Israel is a country of two million people," the late President Nasser told me recently, "and we are a country of 30 million."

"For Israel to be able to fly its airplanes over Cairo any time it wants is as humiliating to me as it would be to you if the Cubans were able to fly over Washington and your armed forces were powerless to stop them."

Humiliation. This was the feeling which was particularly painful to Nasser, and up to the day of his death it was the one mos. on his mind.

Next to frustration, that is. In September 1969, Israeli raiders struck deep into Egyptian territory and for an encore kidnapped a radar base. A group of senior Egyptian army officers reacted by partly curbing Nasser's power, at least to the extent of inducing him to cancel a number of dismissals, and to agree in the future to accept their "advice" on promotions, assignments and transfers.

At the same time Nasser suffered a heart attack then described as a severe case of influenza. His doctors advised him that his life expectancy would be short unless he agreed to cut down his working day from the usual 14 hours to a reasonable four or five.

Since then Nasser had been trying to operate in a sort of chairman of the board capacity. To one whose style was tactics rather than strategy, the experience must have been terribly frustrating. One of his closest subordinates told me a month ago, "The boss feels very uncomfortable in delegating to us, and he's right."

By the time of the peace initiative by U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers, it appeared that Nasser had simply begun to let things slide.

The world will never know how Nasser really felt about the Rogers initiative, or the possibility of peace with Israel.

To begin with, back in 1953-54, he needed Israel. With no strong feelings about Israel itself, he needed Israel as a common enemy against which to unite the Arabs.

If he could comfortably play the Americans and the Russians off against one another as mere spokesmen for Egypt.

how much more effective he would be as a spokesman for the whole Arab world.

Later, after two humiliating defeats, he developed a genuine feeling of hostility toward Israel. But then he saw the two most loudly anti-Israel countries, Syria and Iraq, virtually make peace with Israel. They made it clear by their actions that they had no intention of fighting Israel and were more interested in squabbling with each other.

Meanwhile, they accused Egypt, which had been doing all the fighting, of pacifist inclinations.

Finally, Nasser saw various Palestinian organizations behaving so self-destructively that he began to suspect that some of them were being backed by the Israelis.

Some of Nasser's lieutenants seemed to be genuinely convinced that the Israelis were behind the recent airliner hijackings. To them the argument was not without a certain crazy logic since the Israelis were the only beneficiaries of the hostile world reaction to the terrorists.

We cannot know how Nasser really felt about all this, but given his ambition to go down as a great historical figure, it is easy to guess.

What did Nasser want? First, like any good politician, he wanted to stay in power.

Second, he wanted to use his power for the benefit of Egypt — Egypt primarily, and then the so-called Arab world. He wanted to go down in history as one who had truly benefited his country.

As Nasser understood his economic situation in the 1950s, he saw that without massive aid, which could only come from the United States, he couldn't possibly achieve a growth rate to keep up with his country's birth rate, one of the highest in the world.

"With all the help in sight," he once told me, "and with all our best plans coming together, all I can hope for is to keep Egypt from slipping backwards." This was when, according to American economic experts, Egypt needed some $1 billion a year in hard currency.

and the U.S. State Department was offering Nasser $40 million.

"If Nasser would only stick to Egypt and leave the rest of the Arab world alone," former Secretary of State John Foster Dulles used to say, "we would give him all the aid he wants."

But Nasser was programmed to observe U.S. actions, not words. The United States was then giving him aid and showing him deference to the extent to which he was influential throughout the Arab world and manifested a capability of making a nuisance of himself. When his behavior was not to our liking, we rewarded him. When he did as we wished, we forgot him.

"It seems to me," a senior associate told Dulles, "we should give Nasser credit for being at least as intelligent as Pavlov's dog."

The Nation's Brownouts— Some Reasons Pointed Out

Editor's Note: Last week's four-day, 15-state "brownout" has generated doubts about America's electric power system. In this in-depth report, a member of the AP Special Assignment Team reconstructs the events of last week and delves into the reasons for the nation's persistent power shortages.

By G. DAVID WALLACE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The widespread power shortage on the eastern seaboard last week has left federal officials fretting over the reliability of the nation's electric power system.

Massive generator failures combined with maintenance shutdowns brought the four-day "brownout" affecting 15 states. It also brought a new Federal Power Commission investigation of utility firms' practices in scheduling and coordinating generator maintenance. And it prompted questions about the industry's quality control procedures.

The generator failures "suggest that one of our big problems is the quality control on equipment like that," said S. David Freeman, director of the energy policy staff of the White House office of science and technology. Then Freeman added:

"In my mind, the story of last week is the story of the blackout that didn't happen. By and large it's a success story."

Last week's brownout was the nation's eighth significant power shortage of the summer. Northeastern states were hit hardest and most often, but shortages were felt at times during the summer as far west as Wisconsin.

It could have been worse. "I think we were lucky we had a relatively mild summer," said an official of the Office of Emergency Planning.

The OEP had warned in May of possible power shortages. Reserves of 15 to 20 per cent are considered adequate, but the agency found the Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland complex had reserves of only 9 per cent. The Carolinas and Virginia 6.5 per cent and Commonwealth Edison in Chicago 5.5 per cent.

The 12-company Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Maryland (PJM) combine ran out of power in May when a hot spell hit while some generators were undergoing periodic maintenance.

And when the sun rose in a cloudless sky over the Eastern seaboard last Tuesday, giving birth to an unusual September heat wave, PJM again was caught without a sizeable share of its generating capacity.

In addition to generators which had been undergoing maintenance since early in the month, explosion, fire, leaks, faulty valves and trouble with coal clinkers had knocked out seven others in Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

Early in the day steam pressure collapsed on one generator, the turbines failed on another. A faulty pump feeding the boiler forced a third to operate at reduced capacity. By 10:15 a.m., the temperature was rising toward the mid-90s, air conditioners were humming all over the Eastern megapolis and utilities were reaching into Illinois and Ontario for power. It wasn't enough. Power was reduced by 3 per cent. Six minutes later it was reduced by another 2 per cent.

By 2:30 p.m. the heat wave was fierce. The big 820-megawatt No. 2 generator at the Keystone power station near Johnstown, Pa., broke down.

At that point, PJM was encountering its heaviest demands of the summer with nearly a third of its generating capacity gone. Its neighbors, meanwhile, had troubles, too.

New York had been limping along all summer and could hardly provide much help. It sent some power to PJM but had to cut its voltage. In Virginia and the Carolinas generators knocked out or idled for maintenance forced cutbacks there.

The crisis lasted another day, then began easing as damaged generators were repaired and the heat slackened. But questions remained: Why did it happen? Why is the nation faced with persistent power shortages?

Officials at the Federal Power

Commission pull out elaborate charts to show how utilities plan a year ahead, with monthly reviews, to perform preventive maintenance on generators. Reserves are so small that all the work must be squeezed around the summer to get it done, said Cleve R. Jacobsen, chief of the FPC's section of interconnection and coordination.

Such long-range planning precludes last minute changes for unexpected developments in the weather. Even so, the FPC said in a staff report to Chairman John N. Nassikas during the brownout: "We are investigating further your request to review the maintenance schedules in each affected power pool and the coordination of scheduled maintenance between pools."

Freeman, of the White House office, in discussing quality control, said both manufacturers and utilities are lax.

Utility spokesmen, meanwhile, criticized the equipment furnished them by manufacturers.

And Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., a persistent critic of the electric power industry, complained that investor-owned utilities spent eight times as much on advertising in 1968 as they did on research and development.

Advertising has also been an issue in the larger debate over the availability of electricity. Faced with short supplies, many utilities ceased vigorous promotion of air conditioning after the average annual sale of window air conditioners doubled over six years, powering a tripling of the average annual household bill.

The increased demand comes amid what officials complain is a tightening of supplies of raw materials for electricity, delays in starting new plants and opposition from conservationists and property holders.

Fifty-seven per cent of the nation's electric power is produced from coal. Nuclear generators account for 11 per cent. The FPC estimates that although electric utilities will double their consumption of coal in the next 20 years, the percentages must shift to 55 per cent for nuclear power and 29 per cent for coal if the nation is to have enough electricity.

The FPC has warned that railroad car shortages, failure to return the cars speedily for reuse and enforcement of new federal mine safety legislation already have cut into coal deliveries. An OEP spokesman said some power plants, which prefer to keep at least a month's supply of coal on hand, were down to a one-week reserve at times this summer.

And the eagerly awaited surge of nuclear power hasn't materialized. "The program for installations of nuclear power generation has lagged two to three years behind the predicted level of five years ago," says Nassikas.

Environmental concerns here delayed some nuclear generating plants.

Freeman, however, discounted the significance of conservation struggles so far in the present tight power supply. "It has been more the bread and butter problems of the industry," he said.

Long Air Force Tradition Ends With a Bow to Its Gal Members

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force, conceding some of its policies are out of line with the recent emphasis on women's rights, has given women another victory in their battle for equal treatment in the military. Faced with a lawsuit charging sex discrimination, the Air Force has tossed aside its long-standing policy of preventing women with children from remaining in the service.

The old regulations, said Lt. Gen. A. J. Russell, are "not considered to be in consonance with the recent emphasis on women's rights nor do they conform with a proposed Pentagon policy on equal rights for all Defense Department employees."

The action came a day after

Capt. Tommie Sue Smith, a 35-year-old divorcee from Johnson City, Tenn., sued the Air Force, charging the regulations do not apply to men and therefore violate her constitutional rights.

Mrs. Smith, a lawyer and one of seven women judge advocates in the Air Force, said the regulations would have forced her to choose between her 8-year-old son and her Air Force career.

In a similar suit a month ago, a Navy enlisted woman charged that service's efforts to dismiss her because of terminated pregnancy was based on a double sexual standards and violated her constitutional rights.

Seaman Anna Flores, 23, who is stationed at Pensacola, Fla., complained that men in the armed services are not subjected to the same moral restrictions as women and that such a distinction is discriminatory. The Navy subsequently permitted her to remain in the service.

Mrs. Smith, divorced six years ago, said she was told by the Air Force she would not be able to take her son when she is transferred next year from her current post at Andrews Air Force Base to the Philippines.

Men are permitted to take their dependents along, except in combat zones.

Regulations that force her to choose between her career and her son are "blatantly inequitable" sex discrimination, charged Mrs. Smith.

State 55 MPH Speed Limit in Effect

ALBANY — The new 55-miles-per-hour speed limit for New York State becomes effective today, the first change to effect the entire state in 24 years.

The State Department of Transportation sign installation crews must replace about 3,300 signs now reading 50-MPH on the 14,000 miles of state highway before the weekend. Work began this morning and all or most of the new signs are expected to be installed by Friday night.

The actual cost of the new signs and posts is estimated at $90,000 which does not include installation to be done by Department traffic control crews. There are 63 crews covering the 57 counties of the state.

The change in the speed limit will affect only areas where the 50 MPH limit is now applicable. This will not change the 60 and 65 MPH limits established on interstate and other expressways, nor will the lower limits posted for school zones, city, village or town limits, or for other special areas be affected. In all other areas where no speed limit is posted, the 55-MPH limit will be in effect.

However, Transportation Commissioner T. W. Parker warned, "The motorist in all cases, regardless of posted or otherwise applicable limits, is subject to the clause in the Motor Vehicle and Traffic Law which requires a reasonable and prudent speed according to conditions, and the presence of potential hazards."

The limit change is the first statewide change since 1946. Prior to World War II it was 40 MPH, and during the war it dropped to 35 in cooperation with a nationwide speed restriction designed to conserve gasoline and tires.

Preparations for the change in speed limit, enacted by the 1969 State Legislature, have been in the works for more than a year. This has involved fabrication of the new signs in the Department's sign construction shop at Hamburg, Erie County and advance work along the roadbeds.

55 TODAY — A crew of the State Department of Transportation at the Route 28 Thruway traffic circle shows what is happening all over the state today. New 55-miles-per-hour speed limit signs are being posted. About 3,300 signs with the old limit 50 MPH must be removed from 14,000 miles of state highway. The job will take about two days. On the ladders are Al Lasher, (L) and Robert Gerdes, James Dolce, assistant to Resident Engineer M. Nicholas Sinacori, passes new sign up the ladder. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

Rhinebeck and the Air Pollution Problem

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK — The Rhinebeck Chamber of Commerce and Town Supervisor William Allen are mobilizing to attempt to do something to reduce the air pollution produced by the Hudson Cement Plant in East Kingston.

Helen Battistoni, president of the Chamber, related to The Freeman how recent correspondence with company officials had produced no action, and not even any response from Kingston.

Supervisor Allen said in a conversation Thursday night that a double standard seemed to exist for municipalities and private industry when it came to "air pollution."

The alleged source of the cement particles and sulfurous odor which assail Rhinebeck nostrils on certain days is located directly across the Hudson River.

Marcia M. Steitz, Rhinebeck Chamber secretary, penned a letter to Fortune Pope, president of Colonial Sand and Gravel, "about a month ago," she said, bringing the situation to his attention. Hudson Cement is a subsidiary of Colonial.

The letter said that the Chamber had received complaints from many Rhinebeck residents regarding the "fine mist settling in definite sediment," which was said to be harmful and unpleasant.

It added that any action necessary to help the "increasingly annoying and troublesome" situation would be appreciated or the Chamber would contact state agencies.

Pope replied via the mail assuring that something would be done, and saying that Kingston manager Robert Greene should be in touch with the Chamber.

"This was about two weeks ago," said Mrs. Battistoni, and there hasn't been any word yet. She added that attempts had been made over the past few years to get a response to the problem, with no luck.

Supervisor Allen, when asked what effect the sediment and odor had on Rhinebeck residents, said that when the wind was right the dust would settle on cars, wash hung out to dry, windowsills, and cause damage to painted surfaces.

He noted that the problem had been in evidence ever since the plant was put into operation, "about 10 or 12 years ago." Allen added that, to his knowledge, no organized action on the Rhinebeck side of the

Flood Control For Uptown UR

By HUGH REYNOLDS

KINGSTON — Representatives from the Corps of Engineers will meet with the Laws and Rules Committee of the Common Council tonight to discuss legislation clearing the way for flood control construction in the Uptown urban renewal project.

The federal engineers will ask the Common Council to approve a dike in the uptown project, part of the overall Esopus Creek flood control program. Extension work on that program has been done in Rosendale.

The dike will run along the creek behind Murphy Street and continue behind Kingston Plaza. Under current plans there will be no cost to the city other than "routine maintenance," estimated at about $500 per year. The cost of the dike has been estimated in the million dollar range.

The Kingston project includes levees, flood walls, a pump station and overflow pipes.

James G. Connors, executive director of the urban renewal agency, terms the dike a key factor in the overall urban renewal plan uptown.

"For one thing," Connors said, "the dike will have a direct effect on eight acres of commercial land along Murphy Street." Connors noted that the agency had several offers on that parcel of land but that final agreement was contingent on the construction of the dike.

The dike also figures in with the agency's plans for solving part of the flooding problem in the general uptown area of Kingston.

The agency plans to divert Tannery Brook into 72-inch storm drainage pipes thereby eliminating flood of the brook at its upper extremities that has been a serious problem in Kingston for years.

According to Connors, the brook will be diverted into the pipes at Lucas Avenue, down Green Street, across North Front Street, down Converse and eventually into the Esopus Creek through the new dike.

It is expected that the Laws and Rules Committee, under the chairmanship of Alderman Donald E. Quick (D-Sixth Ward) will issue a report favoring the granting of the right of way for the Corps of Engineers to start work on the dike and that the full Council, at its Oct. 6 meeting, will approve the resolution offered by Laws and Rules.

After that state officials can confer with federal officials on exact cost sharing arrangements after which full federal approval can be expected. Construction could start in early spring of next year.

Credit Cards May be Issued To OBC Bettors

NEW YORK (UPI) — The city's Offtrack Betting Corp. (OBC) may carry its war against the illegal bookmaker to the length of issuing credit cards to bettors, it was reported Wednesday.

OBC President Howard Samuels said in a television interview that the city has "declared war" on the betting operations of organized crime. He said the OBC is taking steps to thwart expected attempts to "sabotage us."

Samuels said the idea of credit cards is under consideration to offset the illegal bookie's practice of offering credit to favored bettors.

"If we're going to beat organized crime in this business, we're going to have to outsell them," he said.

As an interim measure, Samuels said, the corporation will accept deposits from bettors, who can then make bets by telephone to the extent of their deposits. Winnings will be credited to their accounts.

Although only residents of New York State are legally entitled to bet in the parlors, the OBC plans to open in January, Samuels conceded there is "no way of knowing if a deposit bettor is calling in his bet from out of state."

Russian Airplanes Offer Few Luxuries

MOSCOW (AP) — Their safety belts feel weaker than western belts. Wilt Chamberlain and Jackie Gleason would find the seats meager and the stewardesses have never contemplated modeling.

But then life aboard an Aeroflot plane is typical of life in the Soviet Union today: adequate food and facilities, but cramped quarters and few luxuries.

Seasoned air travelers flying the Soviet airline will note the lack of stewardess attention to seat belts—they are not checked—and there is no instruction on oxygen masks, and no movies or 12-channel stereo radio.

The plane's stark gray-green interior is designed to get you to Moscow, not please you. Stewardesses have little regard for personal comfort. But they manage to stuff their passengers with Russian candy and a healthy meal of meat, potatoes, fruit, Georgian white wine, black coffee and sometimes caviar.

The airline, which claims to carry about 30 per cent of the world's air passengers and cargo, says its planes have rear-placed engines that subject passengers to a minimum of noise. In fact, the jet vents on the IL-62 international jet are louder than engine noise for a 747 first class passenger.

Ninety per cent of the 160-passenger plane is tourist class. First class consists of a few small separate cabins. But for the foreigner a first-class reservation means little until he is in the air. High Soviet officials have top priority on first class seats. On a recent flight from Paris to Moscow a Soviet military figure commandeered all the first class cabins at the last moment.

Summer for Aeroflot means foreign tourists—about 300,000 of them. A summer flight entails dodging rope-tied boxes and suitcases that are the insignia of tourists off to visit Russian friends and relatives.

For the Russians, Aeroflot is one of the real benefits from the massive Soviet defense spending. Its fares for internal flights are half as expensive as in the United States, bringing air travel within the means of most Russians. The 500-mile trip from Moscow to the Ukrainian capital, Kiev, costs only 14 rubles or $15. For 169 rubles, equivalent to $187, a Muscovite can fly 5,750 miles over the entire Soviet Union to Anadyr, some 300 miles from Alaska.

New Game On Problems In Ghetto

CHICAGO (UPI) —There's a game on the market that invites players to wrestle with the problems of the ghetto right in their own living room.

It is played on a board with cards which teach participants to survive in the world of the poor just as "Monopoly" taught them to acquire property.

The game, called "Dignity," was invented by Ken Christiansen, a 27-year-old University of Chicago divinity student, who plans to become a United Church of Christ minister.

Christiansen, a native of Remsen, Iowa, worked for two years in a church group on Chicago's South Side. He spent a lot of time with residents of a public housing project and learned first hand the problems of the poor in the city.

He wanted to communicate what he had learned.

"I started a book on the subject, but it seemed to me nobody reads books in the area of race relations unless they're already interested in the problem," he said.

"So I started thinking about recreation as a way of getting into the situation."

So far about 6,000 copies of the game have been sold at $4.95 each.

The object of the game is to reach a square called Dignity. To get there, a player, who is given five cards and $100 to begin with, tries to avoid Shanty Town Housing projects, Skid Row and other unpleasant places.

He can take a short cut through Uncle Tom's Limbo, but then he can't play Freedom Move cards, which are generally helpful in the game. He can take another short cut through the University, but that costs $2,000, which is difficult to acquire in this game.

He can also move to the Place of Hope to think, as Christiansen says, "about where you're going."

Some times a player moves ahead at the expense of fellow players by using "Cut Throat" cards. For instance, by taking a bribe to ignore a building violation code, the player (in the role of building inspector) gets $100 and everyone else moves back two spaces.

"The cards put you in different roles," Christiansen said.

Christiansen copyrighted and sold two editions of the game himself. Then, on the suggestion of a divinity professor, he sold the rights to Friendship Press, which is associated with the National Council of Churches.

Ward Kaiser, of Friendship Press, which is based in New York, said the game has been sold in most areas of the country through religious bookstores.

4-H Schedules Achievement Night Friday

KINGSTON

Ulster County's annual 4-H Achievement Night, to be held Friday night at J. Watson Bailey School begins National 4-H Week activities.

To help call attention to their achievements during the past year and point out what 4-H offers Ulster County Youth, local 4-Hers are arranging window displays and exhibits.

The theme for this year's County and National observance is "We Care." The opportunities in 4-H are greater now than ever before. Young people between the ages of nine and 19 qualify for membership whether they live on farms or in cities.

In the modern 4-H program, the major part of the 4-H story is project work dealing with everyday learning experiences. Some of the latest projects include: snowmobiling, trail cookery, equestrian sewing, "the male chef," weather, and introduction to plant and soil science, as well as additional activities.

Ulster County's more than 950 4-H members with their leaders are celebrating their 40th Anniversary this week. The local 4-Hers are joining more than 174,000 New York 4-Hers and nearly four million others throughout the Nation in the observance of National 4-H Week, Oct. 4-10.

SAUGERTIES NEWS

Mum Festival Blossoming

SAUGERTIES
Arrangements for the activities of the fifth annual chrysanthemum festival at Seamon Park, Saugerties are progressing rapidly for the event to be observed Oct. 5 through 25, and even the flowers in the picturesque park are cooperating.

Caretaker Bernard Kaminski and the park crew have the site in immaculate condition and continue to manicure the lawns and gardens in preparation for festival time. The flowers and shrubbery are gradually approaching the early fall blooms. The mums, which brought wide recognition to Saugerties are expected to surpass past seasons in spectacle and color. During the evening hours, floodlights allow a nocturnal view to those passing by on Route 9W.

In conjunction with this Village Department of Public Works Superintendent William Voerg and his crews continue to maintain and enlarge flower gardens on many of the vacant lots in the community. In recent weeks, several additional plots have been enhanced with new plantings. In an experimental undertaking, village crews cultivated these plants at the landfill site. The department has also been busy placing new blooms in the street sign flower boxes and highly creative efforts by the crews has resulted in the installation of attractive flower urns being placed in other appropriate locations.

Visitors to the festival this year will receive a souvenir brochure about the festival and the history of the park through the courtesy of Saugerties Area Chamber of Commerce. The brochure also has hints on mum cultivation, a map of Saugerties area and its points of interest. In addition there is a history of St. Paul's Lutheran Church of West Camp which is celebrating its 260th anniversary this year.

The church will be open for tours during the two Sundays of the festival.

The church is situated on Route 9W 3.2 miles north of Seamon Park.

Rotary Club Festival Chairman James W. Dargan reported that planning is nearly complete for its Sunday musicale 2:30 p.m. Oct. 11. The Catskill Glee Club under the direction of Donald S. Fellows will again be on the festival program. This will be the premiere appearance for the well-known chorister's 44th season.

Singout Saugerties, a spirited ensemble of area youths are currently working on new additions to its repertoire for the appearance under the new student director, Susan Martin. They were enthusiastically received at last year's event. Mrs. Nan Dickman, choir director of St. Mary of the Snow Church will be at the console of the organ for several presentations during the afternoon.

A new activity this year will be an outdoor art show sponsored by the Woman's Club of Saugerties. Mrs. Steven Ryan, art show chairman and Co-chairman Mrs. Edward Rusczyk announced nearly 50 artists will participate. Heading the list are Aretta Myers, Roy Ickes, Aleda Schoonmaker, Seven Vozdik and Stefan Lokus. The are show will be held on Sunday, Oct. 18 from 1 to 4 p.m. The co-chairmen welcome inquiries about the show.

Robert Ricketson, Jaycees representative on the Festival Committee announced results of a survey of parking facilities at the park. In addition to Seamon Park parking area and street parking, the management of Valley Farm opposite the park has volunteered use of its parking area to visitors. Overflow parking will be directed to Saugerties High School parking areas, a short walk to Malden Avenue, the park site.

The rain date for the musicale is Oct. 18 in which case both events will run concurrently. Rain on Oct. 18 will force rescheduling to Oct. 25.

Seamon Park was a gift from John Seamon in 1909 during an impressive ceremony to which 2,000 attended.

Jaycees Present Awards, Hear Speaker

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties Jaycees at its recent meeting at the Flamingo Restaurant presented several special awards and heard Saugerties Legislator Clifford Snyder speak on the structure of local government.

Thodore Corea received the honor of a Lifetime membership in the Jaycees. This is a first such award in the Saugerties local. Corea has been an involved member for approximately seven years. He has either chaired or worked on just about every Jaycee project.

President John Lawrence presented Ned Steere the Key Man Award and Egon Lippert received a Presidential Citation for his work as chairman of July 4, 1970.

New members received into the organization include Michael Flynn, Edward Pfeifer and Joseph Erbacher.

The Jaycees are planning a pancake breakfast membership rally on October 10 at Atonement Lutheran Church in Sau-gerties. Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. will be guest speaker.

Anyone interested should contact William Jackson, chairman. Gerald Bone, Ecology project chairman, reported October 17 as "Love Esopus Day" starting at 10 a.m. "Here is an excellent opportunity for interested persons to do their share in cleaning up the Esopus," he reported.

Jaycee members will be assisting at this year's Mum Festival October 18 at Seamon Park.

The October dinner meeting has John Jankowiak, state president, heading the list of several notable guests attending. Others include: Frank Antalek, national vice president; Thomas McCord, national director and Stanley Pruzan, district president. The dinner will be held at the Flamingo Restaurant, Saugerties, 6:30 p.m.

Physician Needed, Nurses Group Told

SAUGERTIES
Saugerties Public Health Nursing Committee at its fall luncheon meeting recently at La Rive Restaurant learned that a physician is still not available for the well baby clinic.

The officers for the year were introduced: President, Mrs. William Brinnier; first vice president, Mrs. Charles Ollinger; second vice president, Mrs. William Cowley; secretary, Mrs. Sheldon Fuller and treasurer, Mrs. Robert Finzer.

Clinic assignments included: Orthopedic Clinic, Mrs. Bernard Leszko and Mrs. William Cowley; Immunization Clinic, Mrs. Robert Carr, Mrs. Charles Ollinger, Mrs. John Kaminski and Mrs. Brendan Dooley. Projects and future purchases for the Loan Closet were discussed.

Notable Books On Woodstock Library Listing

WOODSTOCK
The Notable Books Council of the Adult Services Division of the American Library Association has published its list of Notable Books for 1969 and it is interesting to note that the Woodstock Library has 26 of the 36 titles listed which is well above average.

Among recent acquisitions at the library: Fiction: Chocolate Days, Popsicle Weeks by Edward Hannibal; Rich Man, Poor Man by Irwin Shaw; Going All the Way by Dan Wakefield. Non-fiction: Roosevelt: The Soldier of Freedom by James MacGregor Burns; Inside the Third Reich by Albert Speer; Papillon by Henri Charriere.

Wedding Bells Ring Out for Area Couples

MRS. GEORGE F. HOFFMAN JR.
(Lakeside Studio)

Trinity Evangelical Lutheran Church, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Cheryl K. Reis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Reis of 160 Bruyn Avenue, Kingston, and George F. Hoffman Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Hoffman Sr. of 179 Murray Street, Kingston, on Saturday, Sept. 19.

The Rev. John Frenssen, pastor emeritus, officiated at the double ring ceremony. James Reaser, organist, accompanied Paul Markle who sang traditional wedding selections. Gold vases filled with gold and bronze chrysanthemums, pompons and colored wheat decorated the altar.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a silk cranzza gown in a demi-hell silhouette. Pearled Venice lace shaped the high collar and tapered sleeves, formed a button shirtwaist effect, and circled the high waistline. Venice lace trimmed and outlined her chapel train. Her petal crown of Venice lace was framed with four tiers of French illusion and she carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and stephanotis with white streamers.

Mrs. Christine Beesmer of 175 Washington Avenue, Kingston, was matron of honor in an empire gown of gold chiffon, styled with a narrow floral embroidered ribbon circling the waistline, with a tiny bow at her front waist and a streamer bow at back. She wore a petal cap with hanging lilies to match and carried a fireside basket of green, gold and bronze pompons and wheat with gold streamers.

Attendants were Miss Debra Reis, sister of the bride; Miss Carol Haines; and Mrs. Linda Hoffman, all of Kingston. Their willow green gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's and they carried fireside baskets of gold and bronze pompons and wheat with green streamers.

Edward Hoffman, brother of the bridegroom, second Avenue, Kingston, was best man. Ushers were Fred Heppner, cousin of the bridegroom, Kingston; Thomas Bennett, Kingston; and Alfred Friedel of Gansevoort.

A reception for 110 guests was held at Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties.

For her wedding trip through the Southern States, the bride selected a plum knit dress with black accessories and white rosebud corsage.

The bride is a 1965 graduate of Kingston High School and a 1966 graduate of Albany Business College. She is employed as secretary at M. Clifford Miller Jr. High School in Lake Katrine.

Her husband, a 1961 graduate of Kingston High School, was graduated in 1963 from Dutchess County Community College, and is employed by American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Kingston. Mr. and Mrs. Hoffman Jr. will reside at Bloomington.

Rinaldi-Bashor

Announcement was made today of the wedding of Miss Marita Clare Rinaldi of Saugerties and Paul Douglas Bashor of West Hurley at St. Mary of the Snow Church in Saugerties. The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Edward J. Montana, St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, Yonkers, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard L. Rinaldi and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bashor IV of Weldon, Iowa.

Mrs. Charles Dickman, organist, provided traditional wedding selections. Arrangements of pink gladioli decorated the altar and white bows with pink gladioli marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride selected an empire gown of starlight amoresa crepe. A rope twisted with pearls circled the high waistline, the stand-up collar and cuffs. Venice lace buds and pearls with iridescent sequin streamers accented the neckline and sleeves. The empire waistline terminated in a built-in chapel train. A petal crown of Venice lace buds held her floor-length, chapel illusion veiling. She carried a nosegay of white miniature carnations, white pompons and statice, centered with a pink rose and accented with pink and white ribbons.

Miss Ann Schleck of Denver, Colo. served as maid of honor in an empire gown of candied pink crepe with a high collar and long full sleeves and featuring a two-tone pink braid at the high waistline. She wore a matching braid coronet and carried a nosegay of pink miniature carnations, yellow pompons, bachelor buttons and statice, centered with a garnet sweetheart rose accented with pink streamers.

Attendants were Miss Karen Jacobs of Saugerties; Mrs. Charles Russell, Woodstock; Miss Barbara Rinaldi of Catskill, cousin of the bride. Their gowns were identical in styling to that of the honor attendant's and they carried nosegays of pink miniature carnations, yellow pompons, bachelor buttons and statice, accented with pink streamers.

Benjamin Bashor V, brother of the bridegroom, Weldon, Iowa, served as best man. Ushers were Richard Wirkkonen, West Hurley; Charles Russell, Woodstock; William Rinaldi, Catskill, cousin of the bride.

A reception for 125 guests was held at Flamingo Restaurant in Saugerties.

For her wedding trip through the mid-west and southwestern states, the bride chose a cranberry knit pantsuit.

The bride, a graduate of Academy of St. Ursula and College of New Rochelle, is a caseworker for Ulster County Department of Social Services, Children's Division, Kingston. Her husband, an alumnus of Clark County Community High School, Iowa, and Iowa State University, is employed by IBM, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Bashor will reside at Hilltop Apartments, Saugerties.

Marz-Coddington Nuptials Told

First Baptist Church, Albany Avenue, Kingston, was the setting for the wedding of Miss Bonnie Lynn Marz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Marz, Lake Katrine, and Wayne Coddington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Coddington, Brabant Road, Kingston, on Saturday, Sept. 26.

The Rev. Norman Blossat officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Arthur Pederson and Miss Nancy Winchell, cousin of the bride, provided traditional wedding selections. Baskets of white gladioli, and white candles in the altar and white satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white gown of polyester satapeau, styled with a basque bodice and flowing skirt which terminated in a chapel train. The full bishop sleeves were shirred and scalloped lace accented the cuffs, ring neckline, and bands which ran vertically from the neckline to the hem. Two soft bows enhanced the waistline. Her stylized headpiece of pearls and lace petals was attached to an elbow length mantilla and blusher. She carried a crescent cascade of white daisies with gladioli and ivy.

Mrs. Richard Middaugh of Clinton Avenue, Kingston, was matron of honor in a deep blue satin gown with white lace trim. A crown of yellow daisies served as her headpiece and she carried a cascade of yellow daisies.

Attendants were Marion Coddington, sister of the bridegroom, Kingston; Roxanne Holt, Ulster Park; and Diane Knapp, Kingston. Their light blue satin gowns were trimmed with white lace. They wore crowns of daisies and carried cascade bouquets of yellow daisies.

Jo Ann Coddington, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl in a gown styled identically to that of the honor attendant's. She carried a fireside basket of yellow daisies.

Thomas Edge of Kingston served as best man. Ushers were Randy Marz, brother of the bride; Larry Coddington, brother of the bridegroom; and Richard Middaugh, all of Kingston. Ronald Marz, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

A reception for 100 guests was held at Tommy's Restaurant in Kingston.

For her wedding trip to Canada and New England states, the bride chose a navy knit pants suit with a corsage of white roses.

The bride and bridegroom are graduates of Kingston High School and are employed by IBM.

Mr. and Mrs. Coddington will reside at Hurley.

Carol Bailey Guest of Honor At Bridal Shower

A bridal shower was held on Saturday, Sept. 26, for Carol I. Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry F. Bailey, Orchard Park, New York. Miss Bailey of Alda Drive, St. Remy, will marry Paul V. Geary, son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. Geary, 47 O'Reilly Street, at St. Mary's Church on Saturday, Oct. 24.

The surprise shower was held in the home of Mrs. Frank Bailey, 25 Brewster Street, and was given by the bride attendants. Those in attendance were: the Mmes. Jane Ackley, Frank Bailey, John Arold, Anthony Belfiglio, August Bodenweber, Robert Bodenweber, Walter Bodenweber, Peter Caffald, Lawrence Dixon, John Emick, James Forgey, James V. Geary, James C. Geary, John Geary, Kenneth Geary, Mary Gillen, Leslie Hotaling, James Howard, Paul Hyatt, Leo Killian, Adelbert Kinkade, James Madden, William Merrill, Raymond Schabot, Wendell Scherer, Keith Schlachter, Joseph Stenson, Stanley Tomaseski, William Whitney.

Also attending were the Misses: Kathleen Bailey, Jean Bodenweber, Mary Ann Forgey, Barbara Geary, Mark Keating, and Jane Tomaseski. Gifts were also received from relatives and friends unable to attend.

Wedding Announced Recently

Leta Spurgeon of Alturas, Calif., stepdaughter and daughter, respectively, of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo E. Sykes, became the bride of Paul G. Mercier Jr. of El Monte, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mercier Sr. of Port Ewen, on August 22 at Alturas Baptist Church.

The Rev. Edward Wyatt officiated at the double ring ceremony. Mrs. Patricia Cantrell sang traditional wedding selections.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride wore a street-length dress of white lace over taffeta. Her shoulder-length veil was attached to a beaded tiara. She wore a necklace of pearls and carried a white orchid surrounded with white rosebuds and white ribbon streamers which covered her white Bible.

Zelia Forrest of Alturas, Calif., was matron of honor in a yellow dress and carried a hand bouquet of green gladioli. Djwana Spurgeon, daughter of the bride, was flower girl in a yellow dress.

She carried a basket of yellow and white flowers.

Randall Spurgeon of Los Angeles, Calif., was best man. Mark Forrest served as ringbearer, Erin Forrest of Alturas, Calif., was an usher. A reception for 50 guests was held in the reception room of the church. Mrs. Peggy Popejoy, sister of the bride, attended the bride's book.

The bride, a graduate of Modoc High School in Alturas, attended Heald's Business College in Sacramento, Calif. Her husband, an alumnus of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College, served in the armed forces in Vietnam, and is employed at Carnation Company in Los Angeles, Calif.

Mr. and Mrs. Mercier Jr. will reside at Azusa, Calif.

Biers Celebrate First Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Otto Bier of Cherry Hill celebrated their first wedding anniversary Wednesday, Sept. 30.

Mrs. Bier is employed with Kingston's Board of Cooperative Educational Services. She has two sons, Wayne Zimmermann who is attending Temple University in Philadelphia, Pa. and Walter Zimmermann, a chemical graduate of Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., now serving in the U.S. Army Medical Corps in Vietnam.

Mr. Bier has been chef at Dutch Rathskeller for 14 years. He has three children. Mrs. Charles Thiel of Hopelawn, N.J.; Miss Rosemarie Bier who is employed by Jay Allan Agency in Greenwich Village; and a son, Horst, at home.

Mr. and Mrs. Bier enjoyed the Holiday on Ice Show in New York and attended the wedding of Mrs. Bier's niece, Jennifer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Ambrose of Bound Brook, N.J.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
Of The Emily Post Institute
College Girl Goes to Visit
Boy Friend

Dear Mrs. Post: I am a 21-year-old college student whose boy friend lives in a city quite a distance from where I live. Currently, I am working for a company that charters busses. The opportunity has arisen for me to ride a charter bus to his city. This trip would entail my staying in the city for two nights. My boy friend does not live with his parents, so I would have to find other means of lodging. If it would be proper for me to make the trip, which would be the proper lodging (a) for me to stay with some of his relatives; (b) to stay at a girl's apartment that he knows; (c) to pay for my hotel room; (d) for him to pay for my hotel room?

We are not engaged but we have known each other for two years and he is well acquainted with my parents. This is a rare opportunity and I would appreciate a swift response so that the opportunity does not pass by.—Louise

Dear Louise: It is perfectly proper for you to make the trip as long as you and your parents know in advance where you will be staying. The best choice would be with one of his relatives. If that is not possible, you may stay at his friend's apartment. You should not stay in a hotel unless you could get another girl to make the trip with you.

Lace-up Look for Little Girls

The National Cotton Council reports that little girls' fashions feature a variety of lace-up accents. One outfit includes a brown corduroy vest tied up over a multi-color turtleneck sweater, a matching brown corduroy skirt with kick pleat laces up the front.

Blue cotton knit is laced with white on red in a "football player" dress styled for girls this fall. The dress has red stripes on the long sleeves.

Another lace-up look is seen in a red vinyl-coated cotton jumper laced with navy and worn over a navy skinny-rib turtleneck sweater.

FREEMAN ADS BRING RESULTS

Lindy's 29th Save Is Fritz's 20th Win

TEMPER, TEMPER — Boston Red Sox Pitcher Mike Nagy (L) kicks Yankee Pitcher Fred Peterson's (R) protective helmet, in disgust, after dropping ball at home plate, allowing Peterson to score from third base in game Wednesday night at Fenway Park, Boston. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

By VITE STELLINO
UPI Sports Writer

Fritz Peterson decided he didn't want his fate in his own hands and Carl Yastrzyski doesn't have any choice in the matter.

Peterson, a 28-year-old left-hander for the New York Yankees who'd never won more than 17 games in one season in his career, was on the threshold of his first 20-game season Wednesday night. He was protecting a 4-3 lead over the Boston Red Sox but allowed two hits with one out in the ninth inning.

Manager Ralph Houk then came out and let Peterson decide whether he wanted to stay in to try to win his 20th on his own. "Anything you want to do is fine with me," Houk said. "Bring Lindy in," Peterson replied. "He's picked me up a season by going 1-for-4 to wind up with a .329 average, which is tops in the league. The one hit was a scratch infield single as the official scorer gave Yaz the benefit of the doubt and called it a hit."

But Yaz won't be able to decide whether he'll win the crown or not, Alex Johnson of California, who went 1-for-3 to boost his average to .327, has a final game left tonight. Johnson has to go at least 2-for-3 or get three hits if he comes to bat four or five times to catch Yaz.

Yaz said, "I would have liked to hit .330 but I don't have any complaints. That guy (Peterson) pitched a helluva game and it wouldn't have made any difference if he was left or right handed the way he was pitching."

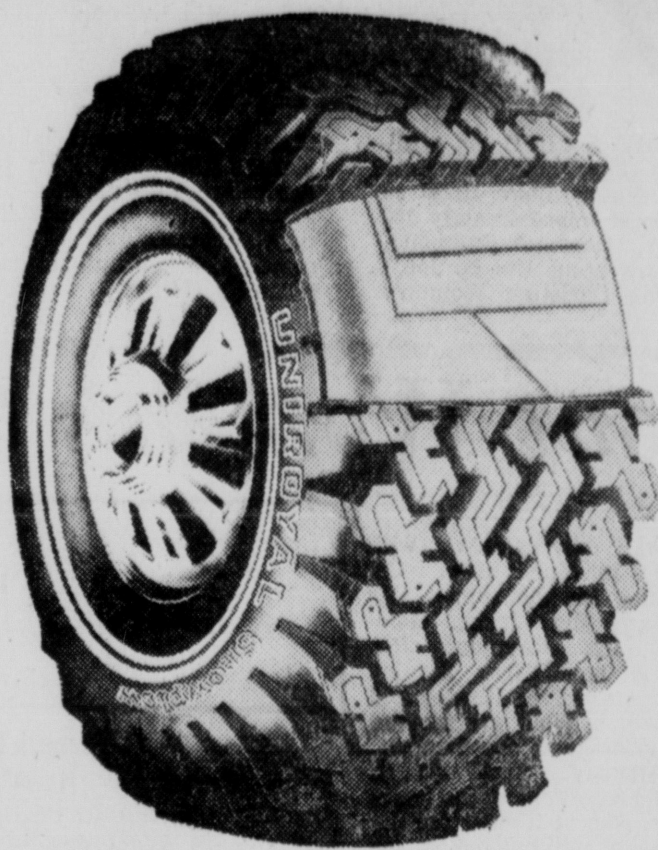

In other AL games, Baltimore ripped Washington 6-2.

Minnesota edged Kansas City 6-4, Pittsburgh 4-3, Chicago blanked McNally, who posted his 24th win, California topped Chicago 5-1, New York 2-0 and Montreal triumphed, tossed a four-hitter to Milwaukee beat Oakland 4-1, defeated Philadelphia 5-4. At bat Washington, The Orioles and Detroit beat Cleveland 4-3, Tampa and Cincinnati were idle, snapped a 2-2 tie in the sixth.

In the National League, Baltimore isn't exactly coasting with a four-run outburst featuring Houston edged San Francisco 4-1 in the playoffs. The tying a two-run single by Merv 3, San Diego topped Los Angeles won their 10th straight Rettenmund and a two-run Angeles 2-1, St. Louis beat to tie a club record as Dave triple by Brooks Robinson.

Battle for Second Down to the Wire

By TOM SALADINO

Associated Press Sports Writer

The National League East battle—for the No. 2 spot—will be settled tonight when the New York Mets and Chicago Cubs meet while in Philadelphia the surprising Montreal Expos can avoid a basement finish with a victory as the regular season comes to a close.

Bill Hands stifled the Mets on seven hits Wednesday as the Cubs moved into a second place tie with their 2-0 triumph, setting up a confrontation between Chicago's 21-game winner Ferguson Jenkins facing Jim McAndrew, 10-13.

Second place is worth approximately $1,000 per man while the losing team will pick up about $300 apiece. The East champion Pirates have a five-game lead as they get ready for Saturday's opening playoff game against the Cincinnati Reds.

The Expos exploded for four third inning runs to stop Philadelphia 5-4 and move one-half game ahead of the Phillies into fifth place.

Carl Morton, Montreal's rookie right-hander will be on the mound today trying to push the Phils into the cellar. The youngster has taken 18 games this season and is a prime candidate for NL Rookie of the Year honors.

In other NL action, Houston edged San Francisco 4-3, St. Louis shaded Pittsburgh 4-3 and San Diego topped Los Angeles 2-1. Cincinnati and Atlanta were not scheduled.

The Cubs snapped a scoreless tie in the sixth inning as Mets' starter Nolan Ryan walked four Cubs for a run and Chicago added a tally in the seventh on Tommy Davis' run-scoring double.

The Expos trailed 3-1 in the third, when with two out, Jim Gosger drove in a run with a single, John Bateman followed with a two-run hit and Bobby Wine capped the inning by driving in Bateman with a triple.

In the West, Houston clinched fourth place, beating the Giants on John Edwards' run-scoring single with one out in the ninth off reliever Don McMahon. Larry Dierker, 16-12, was the Astros winner.

Juan Marichal went the first eight innings for San Francisco. Bobby Bonds ripped his 26th homer for the Giants.

The Dodgers missed a chance to clinch second in the West as the Padres snapped a three-game losing string. Los Angeles leads the Giants by one-half game.

Pat Dobson, 15-16, tossed a seven-hitter as the Padres ended the season.

Umpires May Strike Before the Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP) — There's a chance the major league umpires could call a strike against their employers Friday on the eve of the playoffs.

"I don't know what's going to happen, but we're going to ask for more money," Augie Donatelli, a National League umpire and a director of the Major League Umpires Association, said Wednesday night.

More money, said Donatelli, means a minimum of $5,000 for each man who works the playoffs and $10,000 apiece for those assigned the World Series. Last year the umpires got $2,500 for the playoffs and $6,500 for the World Series.

Donatelli said the Umpires Association would not predict what action would stem from the meeting. One possibility is a boycott. Reynolds said in Chicago a boycott is conceivable.

Other umpires contacted at various major league cities Wednesday night either said they had not heard about any boycott or they declined comment.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn was not available for comment.

Soccer Hawks Claw Oswego

By IRA FUSFELD

NEW PALTZ State University's "Foreign Legion" broke up a tight game with three fourth-quarter goals to give the Hawks a 6-2 win over Oswego State here yesterday.

It was the first win of the season for New Paltz after an opening loss at Buffalo State.

All-American Bob Hippy scored twice for the Hawks as did former Kingston Club boater Elliott Pobbi-Assare. Jerry Hoetmer and Tsegaye Taye added one apiece.

Taye opened the scoring early in the game with a short thrust to the left of Laker goalie Walt Siegest at 3:34. Oswego came back to tie it at 12:40 when Dick Aimes converted a pass from Mark Reynolds into a score.

But Hippy, who twice has received honors as one of the best soccer players in the country, took a beautiful feed from Taye at 3:36 of the second quarter to give the lead back to New Paltz.

Pobbi-Assare made it 3-1 minutes later when he took a Hippy pass, came in on the Oswego goalie, faked to the far side and drilled it inside. The time was 6:20.

A New Paltz defensive lapse just after the third quarter began made things close again. Aimes and Steve Akerson of Oswego turned a two on one rush into a goal. Aimes got the assist. Akerson got the goal at 3:57.

The Hawks, tight and not particularly aggressive throughout, finally loosened up bone sticking out of your leg to Hippy's second goal in the show somebody you're hurt."

fourth quarter. After taking a came at 6:40, one minute 32, Pobbi-Assare ended the but until the fourth, the Lakers were very much in it.

Is Don in Doghouse?

Maynard, Weeb: A Point of Dissent

NEW YORK (UPI) —Don said Maynard, Wednesday, Maynard of the New York Jets displaying an ugly, multi-colored, foot-long welt along his yardage than any player in the left thigh. "The leg has a history of pro football. Last contusion and is bleeding inside. season he led the American It's taken quite a while to get Football League in pass receive ing through most of 11 games practice last week when I got before suffering a broken foot, kicked."

Now, supposedly, he's fighting for a starting berth.

Maynard has drawn the ire of Jets' coach Weeb Ewbank because of what the coach calls, "puzzling injuries." He missed most of the exhibition season, started the Jets' opener against Cleveland and was benched last week against Boston, appearing only for a few plays.

Ewbank insists that any player who does not practice during the week will not play in a game and insinuates that Maynard's injuries perhaps are not as serious as he makes them out to be.

"I guess you gotta have a bone sticking out of your leg to position with Caster over the there."

"I'm not really concerned about it," said Maynard. "I don't drop 30 passes a week in workouts," referring to Caster's erratic pass catching.

"I don't dog it, no matter what anybody says," he added.

"I like to run. It's the easiest thing for me to do. I ran all last week. I'm running all this week and I'll probably run all next week, too," said Maynard. "But the leg is not up to par. I hurt my calf before the Giant game (Aug. 23) and it's still sore."

Maynard said "a good field and a little warm weather should help bring it around."

The Jets, unable to use Shea Stadium until the baseball season ends, are practicing at Riker's Island, a New York City prison.

"Riker's island is the best field we've played on in New York," said Maynard. "Buffalo has pretty good turf, too, so it should be pretty good up there."

New Paltz is home again on Saturday to meet conference foe Fredonia State in a 2 p.m. game.

Riding Club Sets Last Show

WOODSTOCK

Woodstock Riding Club will hold its last horse show of the 1970 season Sunday at the club grounds on lower Ohayo Mountain Road. The show, which is the 20th annual field day, will be for both English and Western classes.

Judge for the show will be Mrs. Charles Thayer of Springfield, Vt. Judging starts at 9 a.m. Stabling will be available on club grounds.

SHOWOFF — There is nothing better than a pretty girl to spur you on while you're training for a fight. In this case heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry is hard at work for his upcoming bout with Cassius Clay while his cousin, Karen Cope, provides the moral support. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Danes Bow Out

BERKELEY (UPI) — Erik seeds, Cliff Richey of San while later to eliminate Austria's Terry Addison 7-6, 4-6, 6-3. Angelo, Tex., and Arthur Ashe, also advanced. Richey defeated South Africa's Ray Moore in straight 6-2 sets while Ashe ousted Haroon Rahim of Pakistan and UCLA 6-4, 6-2.

It was a long and fruitful day for Bob Lutz of Los Angeles. He downed Berkeley's Bob Alloo 7-5, 4-6, 6-2 in the opening round and came back a short time later to watch Ashe win his first match.

Ulrich apparently was feeling the effects of the recent wave of warm weather and the sharp play of his opponent. Ulrich retired from his match with Tom Gorman of Seattle after dropping the first set 3-6.

All of the favorites advanced in impressive fashion with the exception of tournament chairman Barry MacKay. He got by Bill Brown of Omaha 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 in the first round but then fell before Ray Ruffels of Australia 6-3, 7-6.

The tournament's top two had been in contact with him Cuozzo if he signs.

Mira Going to Vikings?

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) —George Mira, former San Francisco 49ers quarterback most recently owned by the Philadelphia team, may join the Minnesota Vikings if he can solve his contract problems with the Eagles.

Vikings Manager Jim Finks said Wednesday the Vikings were interested in Mira and had been in contact with him.

and his attorney for about two weeks over the telephone.

Mira reportedly had a two-year, no-cut contract for $50,000 with Philadelphia and although a team picking him up would not have to honor it, Philadelphia would have to pay the difference between it and any new salary he would receive.

"The Vikings would plan to use him as a backup to Gary Cuozzo if he signs."

Rhinebeck Booters Zip Anderson, 11-0

RHINEBECK saves, while two Rhinebeck McCahey made it 6-0 at half-goals, Steve Sken and Paul time with a score at 11:23. Rhinebeck booters received little more than a workout in demolishing Anderson School 11-0 Wednesday afternoon during drizzly, chilly weather at the winner's field.

Coach Ralph Stuart used all of his forces in an attempt to keep the score from mounting too rapidly, and later told the Freeman that it was a difficult situation as one couldn't ask the boys not to try.

Augie Grutle scored twice, Jim Roome once, Bob McCahey three times, Dave Kallop three times, Mike Farrell once, and Tim Jack once.

PHS Tops Red Hook

RED HOOK Red Hook long distance runners dropped their first cross country meet in the last 17 contests in a rescheduled meet with Poughkeepsie High School Tuesday, 24-30.

The first three places went to Poughkeepsie runners, with Kurt Dossin leading the pack in 13:17. Daren Kilgore finished fourth for Red Hook at 13:41, followed closely by Chester Damon in 13:42, and Jeff Thompson and Wayne Rice, both 13:45.

It was the second meet this year for Red Hook, which topped Haldane last week, and was Poughkeepsie's second straight victory.

The top ten: Dossin P. 13:17; Heterill P. 13:34; Flaherty P. 13:36; Kilgore RH. 13:41; Damon RH. 13:42; Thompson RH. 13:45; Rice RH. 13:45; Schlamm P. 14:03; Blank RH. 14:05.

KHS Frosh Top Newburgh, 16-12

KINGSTON Kingston HS's frosh scored two second half touchdowns for a come 16-12 win over Newburgh yesterday.

Maroon quarterback John Chappell went over for both Kingston tallies with quarterback sneaks. Runs by Chris Sleight and Ray Gay gave the winners their conversion points.

Newburgh had taken the first half lead on two long TD runs by Pete Politi.

By MORT LAFFIN

KINGSTON Key games dot the Ulster County Athletic League and Dutchess County Scholastic League schedules this Saturday as area teams try to keep winning streaks intact, while others attempt to end losing streaks and keep in the title pictures.

Games scheduled are: Highland at Liberty; Marlboro at Ontario; Pine Bush at New Paltz; Walkill at Rondout; Cardinal Farley at Red Hook; Ellenville at Tri-Valley and Lourdes at Saugerties. Highland, with quarterback

Bob Mattice in the drivers' seat, will try to get back on the winning track after last on the winning track. Ontario's week's loss to Rondout. Coach has surprised fans and football buffs with two big wins. But, fire his boys up, averting a let-down that could cost them two in a row.

Liberty has so far been an on-again-off-again club. The Redskins were like that last year until about the third game when everything broke loose. Bruce Rosencrantz seems to be the boy to stop at Liberty.

Marlboro-Ontario
Marlboro and Ontario lock horns in a pivotal battle for both schools. The Dukes were surprised that they were so easily beaten by New Paltz last week and will be looking to get back on the winning track.

as one of the finest signal-callers and option-play operators that he has ever seen. Harold Anderson has finally made the complete adjustment to the backfield and is off and running. Bill Schiller is no slouch either. The line is anchored by tough John Palonis.

Ganders Flying
George Wallack, Bruce Burr, Bill Parete, Mike Alecca, Scott Smith, Mike Harris, Hyler VanWagenen, Dennis Baney, Ron Hall, Buford Wood and a host of others have been outstanding thus far for Coach Mickey Milion's Ganders.

Rondout is heading for the UCL title and it would take a very large miracle for Walkill to deter them from the route. Wallack is an excellent field general. Alecca is one of the best, premiere runner in UCL play. Bill Parete does it all and keeps driving against all odds.

Ellies Get Better
Ellenville is looking better and better and should have little trouble with Tri-Valley. The Ellies stung powerful Pine Bush in their first game, but had a little trouble tying Jeffersonville in the second contest. Coach Dave Frank figures that his team should have won that one and says his boys are going to take this one.

Saugerties keeps crying inexperience and bad breaks, but gets better-looking all the time. The Sawyers have found an excellent passer in Junior Rich Koegel and a Raymond Berry-like receiver in Ray Bean. Dee White does an outstanding job defensively for the Sawyers.

Lourdes Still?
Our Lady of Lourdes showed more offense last week in the 50-0 slaughter of the Beacon Bulldogs than they have in the past three years' total slate. Reports have it, however, that the Bulldogs played like Toy Poodles and Saugerties should be much more of a challenge.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kansas City has a slight edge over Denver.

They've played 20 times before and so far the series stands, 19-1, KC.

More than that the Chiefs looked exactly like what they are, Super Bowl champions, in bludgeoning Baltimore, 44-24. Monday night, they're 12-point choices for this Sunday's contest with the Broncos and Len Dawson has been doing everything right.

Then add this from Lou Saban, the Denver coach, on how he feels about the Chiefs: "They're experienced; they've got a big front four; they've got quickness and a fine secondary. What more can I say?"

I don't know what more Lou Saban can say about Kansas City but I can say this about his Denver ball club: if they control the football they can beat the Chiefs, and if they can put some pressure on Dawson and eliminate some past mistakes, as they did in their last two games, they can win. This Sunday I think they will. Despite the odds, despite the Chiefs' spectacular pass rush and despite that slight edge KC has in the series.

In the other games:

Saturday

Cleveland over Pittsburgh — Bill Nelsen, bad knee and all, wins one for his wife. That'll keep her from nagging him about quitting — for awhile.

Miami over Oakland — Daryle Lemmonica can't do the whole thing by himself.

Sunday

Los Angeles over San Diego — Football is a great game but... for the first time ever the baseball World Series is going to be telecast in Chinese to Taiwan by NBC and let's see football beat that!

Green Bay over Minnesota — Bart Starr is banged up but the Pack looks ready to take another step back anyway.

Dallas over St. Louis — The Cowboys are learning to improvise, like Lance Bentzel suddenly developing into a passer... left-handed yet! — San Francisco over Atlanta — The problem here is everytime you keep an eye on John Brodie Ken Willard goes by.

Baltimore over Boston — Colts can't look that bad twice in a row, can they? — New York Jets over Buffalo — Matt Snell and Emerson

Boozar are turning Jets into a hot running ball club. Cincinnati over Houston — Sam Wyche, Cincy's quarterback, is in and out and this

Tate Resignation a Mystery

MIAMI (UPI)—The actual reason for the surprise resignation of Charlie Tate as head football coach and athletic director of the University of Miami remains a mystery.

Tate, gravel-voiced mentor of the Hurricanes for the past six seasons, announced his resignation Wednesday at a hastily arranged news conference. A statement from the coach gave no hint of the real reason for his resignation.

"After very careful and soul searching consideration I have regretfully determined to resign as head football coach and athletic director of the University of Miami," Tate said.

University President Henry King Stanford accepted Tate's resignation and named longtime assistant coach Walt Kichefski as acting head football coach and athletic director until the end of the year.

"Coach Tate's resignation came entirely on his own initiative and is a complete shock and surprise to me," Stanford said. "He informed me that he was resigning in the best interest of the university, the coaches, the recruiting program and everyone concerned."

There was some speculation that dissatisfaction among influential alumni with Tate's performance may have played a part in the colorful coach's resignation. There were reports that Tate felt he had to produce a winning season this year in order to retain his job.

Tate was unavailable for comment.

The resignation came two days before Miami, with a 1-1 record so far this season, takes on Maryland in the Orange Bowl Stadium Friday night. The Hurricanes opened the season with a ragged victory over outmanned William and Mary and lost to Georgia Tech in Atlanta last Saturday in a performance that gave Tech touchdowns on two Miami fumbles and a pass interception. A university spokesman said Tate had seen Stanford Tuesday night about resigning, and that Stanford asked him to weigh the decision overnight.

Then Tate went back to Stanford Wednesday afternoon with the final decision to resign.

Tate came to Miami in 1964 from Georgia Tech, where he served for five years as an assistant to Bobby Dodd, heading Tech's defense the last three years.

Four of Tate's six seasons before this at Miami were winning ones. His record at Miami, including this season's two games, stands at 34-27-3.

Kichefski has been an assistant coach at Miami since 1943. He was a star defensive end with the Hurricanes in 1936-38 and made honorable mention all-America. He played professional football with the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National Football League before returning to coaching.

Former Notre Dame Great To Speak at League Dinner

HURLEY The name "Four Horsemen" was coined by sportswriter Grantland Rice in 1924 after Notre Dame topped Army, 13-7, of the Hurley Little League. James "Sleepy Jim" Crowley wrote: "Out of a cold, gray October sky, Four Horsemen rode again. They are known in literature and dramatic lore as Famine, Fire, Pestilence and Sudden Death, but these are only aliases. Their real names are Stuhldreher, Crowley, Miller, and Layden."

Crowley went on to become backfield coach at the University of Georgia and head coach at Michigan State and Fordham University. He is the halfback on the all-time Notre Dame team and is a member of the College Hall of Fame at Rutgers University and the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

Rockefeller Gives Views On Sludge-Cleanup Plan

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller announced today plans for removing sludge and silt that have built up over the years in many of New York's lakes and rivers.

The governor said his proposals for cleaning up river beds and lake bottoms would be based on research to find the best ways of removing the sludge and silt; a survey of the state's waters to identify the most serious areas; new state construction practices to reduce soil erosion; and development of a "model land practices code" for local government and private construction.

Rockefeller's statement made only a brief reference to Lake Champlain, where the sludge buildup has attracted particular attention.

The governor, in referring to field and laboratory work on the best ways to eliminate continuing pollution problems from accumulated sludge, said: "The state is now working with the International Paper Co. and Vermont on an experimental removal of a small amount of the century-old paper sludge in Lake Champlain for testing and evaluation. This carefully controlled experiment will provide new information on the effect of such dredging on the lake, the chemical makeup of the sludge, and the possibilities for reuse."

The governor also said his sludge-cleanup plan was intended to supplement the Pure Waters Program for ending present sources of pollution.

Clothing Drive In Final Week
KINGSTON — The fall clothing drive of the Kingston Area Council of Churches is entering its final days, according to the chairman, the Rev. David C. Gaise, DD. Each member congregation has been receiving materials which are to be brought to a central collection point on Saturday.

The need for blankets which are sent immediately by the thousands when there are emergencies such as the South American earthquake, is especially great. Children's and men's light weight clothing are in short supply. Women's cotton dresses, skirts and blouses are also acceptable. These items should be taken to member churches at once so they can be included in this national gathering by Church World Service.

Turn Trash for Cash, Major New Industry

NEW YORK (AP) — The Environmental Action Coalition has urged eight million New Yorkers to turn in their trash for cash.

In the first major experiment of its kind, the coalition said Wednesday it would pay city-dwellers for turning in bottles, cans, newspapers, scrap metal and rags for reprocessing and reuse by major industries.

"It is not," said spokesman Robert Gale, "your run-of-the-mill Boy Scout newspaper drive. We believe it could be the beginning of a major new industry in the United States."

Gale, 31, a former Vista Volunteer in Los Angeles and the coalition's associate director, said workers in the "Trash-Is-Cash" campaign were accepting trash turn-ins at five centers throughout the city.

He said the first payments probably would be delayed until December, after administrative and other costs are determined. The rates are expected to range from $200 a ton for aluminum to $5 a ton for bimetal, the material used for soda cans. Bottles will bring about $20 a ton and newspapers, about $10.

Gale said more than 300 companies had agreed to accept the trash, with several offering to provide trucks for hauling. The James J. Brancato Co. of Milneola, a salvaging firm, alone will provide 55 trucks.

Gale said most of the glass will go to the Metro Glass Division of Kraftco Corp., in Jersey City, N.J., which last June began its own recycling campaign, paying one cent a pound for used glass. In 12 weeks, it has reprocessed more than one million pounds of bottles.

Three firms, two in New Jersey, will receive most of the newspapers, Gale said. The coalition hopes to divert about three tons of trash a day back into industry—about 12 percent of the daily output by New Yorkers. Already, one group on Long Island reported collecting 16½ tons for turn-in next week, and a Brooklyn boy, Curtis Sil-

Synagogue News
Ahavath Israel
Religious Services will be held this week at Congregation Ahavath Israel, a Conservative Synagogue, at 100 Lucas Avenue, according to the schedule for Rosh Hashonah, the Holy Day 6:45 p.m., and 8:30 a.m. This Friday services will be held at 6:45 p.m. because of the holiday. Saturday morning, Shabbas Shuvah, services will be held at 9:30 a.m.

At the Friday evening services the Mourners Prayer will be offered for the following yahrtzeiten which will be observed during the coming week: Jacob Bruner, Hannah Goldstein, David Lazar Greenspan, Anna Gruberg, Rose Sylvia Kinberg, and Abraham Lampkin.

Classes at the Talmud Torah of Kingston will be held on regular schedule next week. The Yom Kippur Holy Day will begin on Friday evening, Oct. 9.

Temple Emanuel
Brotherhood Shabbas Shuvah Services will be held Friday night at Temple Emanuel, 243 Albany Avenue. Services begin at 7:30 p.m. The public may attend. Services will be conducted by Rabbi Jonathan Eichhorn, assisted by Dr. John Park and Robert Palmatier. Rabbi Eichhorn's talk is entitled, Real Leadership. During services, the newly elected officers of the Temple Brotherhood will be officially installed by the rabbi. The officers are: Edward Levine, president; Ray Riffenburg, first vice-president; Fred Shaynow, second vice-president; Stanley Wyman, secretary; Kurt Wolf, treasurer; and Albert Spiegel, immediate past-president.

During the services, the memories of the following persons will be invoked: David Dubin, Elizabeth Rothenberg, Herman Litt, Sarah Unell, Bertha Marblestone, Ben Cohn, Paul Rosenbaum, Lester Wolff, Samuel Gade and Julius Skvinsky.

Following services, the entire congregation may attend the annual High Holy Days reception sponsored by Rabbi and Mrs. Eichhorn at the Rabbi Bloom Memorial Hall.

The membership committee reports that the following families have affiliated with the Temple during the past week: Mr. and Mrs. Max Behoriam, Dr. and Mrs. Herman Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Borsky. Persons interested in joining the Temple are asked to contact Albert Spiegel, Harold Monashefsky or Rabbi Eichhorn.

Yom Kippur Kol Nidre services will be held Friday evening, Oct. 9, beginning at 7:30 p.m. Yom Kippur morning services will be held Saturday, Oct. 10, beginning at 10 a.m. Children's services will be at 2:30 p.m.

Non-congregants desiring tickets to attend the Yom Kippur Services may contact Edwin Wetterhahn.

Dear Abby

Noisy Child in Church

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1970 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My children have all urged me to write and take exception to your answer regarding all the "selfish slugs" who bring crying and talking babies to church services.

You said, "If a child makes even one annoying sound he should be removed from the audience for the duration of the service."

We are Mormons, and Mormons believe in large families. We also believe the whole family should attend church together. Maybe the young people who are having problems with drugs, immorality, etc., would be living differently if they had been taken to church when they were babies.

Babies by nature cry. Children sometimes speak out. Adults by nature are often tolerant of others—especially children. I admire the minister who is impervious to distractions.

I suspect that if Christ were giving the sermon one day and your writer complained to Him about the children, He would repeat what He said once before, "Suffer little children and forbid them not to come unto me: for of such is the kingdom of heaven."

Yours, very truly,
MRS. C. D. H.
BLACKFOOT, IDAHO

DEAR MRS. H.: Thank you for pointing out the other side of the coin. You show yourself to be more compassionate than I in this instance. May I amend my advice and apply the rules of baseball to disturbances in church? Three times and out! I would like to know how clergy-men feel about this.

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law, who lives in another state, is "things crazy." She has traveled all over the world collecting things. Her home is a museum—not a home.

My husband and I and our two children, ages three and five, visited her recently and it was pure agony. She watched the children like a hawk and it was, "Don't touch that," every other minute. My husband went right along with her, spanking the kids every time one reached to touch something.

I got so nervous I finally sent the children outside. My mother-in-law followed to be sure they didn't step on her flowers! (She was spanked the 3-year-old twice in 20 minutes for daring to touch one of her pansies.)

These children are not bad. And they're certainly not wild or destructive. They have an intelligent curiosity about everything, and what harm is there in touching a flower?

I refuse to visit her with the children again. I've told my husband that if his mother wants to see US, she has good health and plenty of money, and she can look up her museum and visit us in our home. My husband says I am wrong. What do you think?

ALL SPANKED OUT
DEAR ALL: I think you're right.

DEAR ABBY: I had a beautiful body until I had radical cancer surgery six years ago. I accepted what had to be with-out tears or complaint. It has not changed by life as I still work up to my full capacity, physically and mentally.

I could forget my bodily disfigurement (almost) because with the proper undergarments I still have a good figure.

My husband's remarks about other women's "builds" hurt your surgery. Or perhaps be-cause terribly. He will say, "Boy, cause you've had surgery, you look at that gal. She sure is over-ly sensitive about it. stacked. I wonder if her bo-Quit suffering in silence and some are 'real'?" ask him if he's thoughtless, or The other day I was standing just plain cruel.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90060. For a personal reply enclose getting to me, Abby. ## CARROLL RIGHTER'S horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

You can now make progress in gaining support from one who can aid you greatly through some unexpected circumstances. Be sure you are adroit and quickly adaptable to whatever arises. Let it be known that you are willing to coordinate your efforts as needed.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Plan some time to know what associates want of you in the future. Speed up your activities and get them out of the way early so you can spend some time finding out what associates want from you in the future. This will make things easier for you in the future. Support some new plan that is worthwhile.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) An associate gives the right solution to some problem that you had not expected. Show good will toward a valuable aide. Get to bed early to be fresh to tackle a knotty problem tomorrow.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some invitation you receive now can be very good for you, so accept with alacrity. You have fine abilities and can commercialize on them now. Having more self-confidence is important.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Handle family matters differently and you will see them solved easily and quickly. Entertaining at home, or just relaxing, could be pleasurable tonight. Extend invitations to interesting friends.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Communicating with others as planned can bring the benefits you want now. It is also possible to get information you need. Use care in motion, especially driving.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Take necessary steps to add to your income. A business mogul will share secrets with you, so listen carefully to what is being said. Forget about talking shop in the evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) An ideal day for social activities which can help you in business. Doing some big favor for a good friend is practically a duty now. Don't neglect your closest of kin.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Quietly study some situation and you will get the right slant on it. Give concentrated attention to one who appeals to you. The evening can be particularly romantic.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Reach a better understanding with dynamic friends and you will get ahead faster. A new ally or two can be most helpful in the days ahead. These can become long-time friends.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find the correct modern methods by which you can use your best talents for greatest profits. A bigwig will do much to be of assistance to you. Do not forget to show gratitude for favors.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 18) ...

19. A more modern viewpoint is what you need now to progress in your own line of endeavor. Plan that trip that will make others happy also. Evening is the best time for detailed work.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Carry through with agreements and please others instead of disappointing them. The one you love can extend favors just at the right time. Make life happier through your own efforts.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people others go out of their way to help. This progeny, however, must be taught early to stand on own two feet. Otherwise the fine capabilities will be lost and the life will become a bore instead of a boon to humanity. There is much artistic ability and study should be slanted along such lines. Early religious training is necessary also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU! Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for October is now ready. ## Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

PUSHED AWAY: (Q) My girl friend lets me hold her hand or put my arm around her. But when I try to kiss her goodnight she gets all jumpy. She looks at the door and says her mother is coming. She knows and I know that's not so. Her mother likes me, and never walks in on us.

It's the same every time. She pushes me away. Then I start to walk off, and she calls me back, and the argument starts all over again. What can I do? I'm 18 and she's 17.—No Kisses in New Bedford, Mass.

(A) You and she are old enough for a goodnight kiss. Tell her you're tired of being shoved around and unless she can relax and be a little more co-operative you may have to move on. Be kind and gentle, but also clear about what you mean.

If within a date or two after you've talked to her the weather doesn't improve, go some place where it's warmer. BAD ROAD: (Q) My younger brother is a pothead. Almost every night he smokes grass with his friends. He's just 17 and I'm 18. I thought I had about talked him out of it. But just before I had to leave for college I found out he'd been dropping acid.

I hate to think of going home for the holidays and finding him hooked on heroin. But what can I do? We are very close, and if I told our parents, he would never forgive me.—Big Brother in Massachusetts.

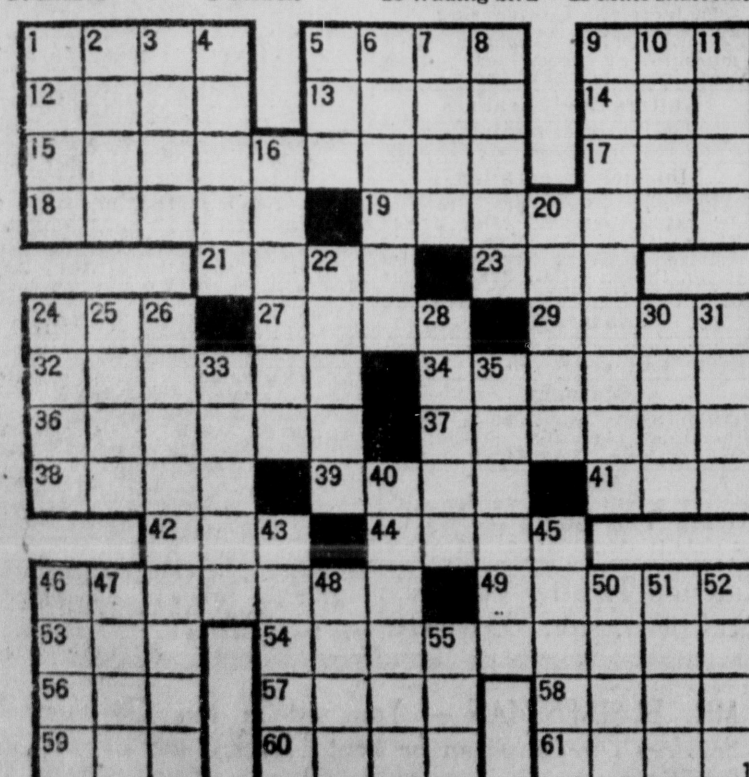

(A) You are not very close. He has taken a risky road toward a far country.

He is taking chances with his own life and with the lives of any children he may have. These children would be your nephews and nieces.

You owe it to him and the future to let your parents know what is going on. Now. Tell them, but not anyone else. (Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001. Only letters that include a stamped, self-addressed envelope will be answered.)

NEW YORK (AP) — "Medi-cal Center," CBS' doctor show, concentrates on the cases of Dr. Joe Gannon, a dedicated physician equally skilled in surgery, internal medicine and psychiatry.

In the Wednesday night episode, Gannon was involved in salvaging a 16-year-old girl addicted to heroin. The program ABC season, can best be described as a sweet show. There en to the needle by excessive demands of her parents.

The story was built around a professor's daughter who was constantly pushed for high grades. Gannon, played tensely together beautifully. In fact, and soberly by Chad Everett, they save the whole thing from spotted the symptoms. Much being cloyingly sugary.

time was given to graphic descriptions of the young drug scene. Eddie was being talked scene, matched by efforts to persuade a stubborn father who with a girl playmate who was

The program's prescription for recovery was group therapy with other young people attempting to end their addiction. It was a well-constructed, interesting story but the solutions and diagnosis may have been a little pat.

In all forms of Stayman, the response of two in any suit but clubs is a weakness bid. It says, "Partner, we don't have a game and my hand is unsuitable for notrump. If you have a maximum no-trump and like my suit, you may try raising me to three, but in all other instances I want you to pass."

South has one of those hands. He has no interest in game and he doesn't like the idea of letting his partner struggle with one no-trump. Playing JACOBY MODERN or almost anything else that is modern, he responds two spades. South has 17 points for his no-trump but he doesn't like spades and 10 of his points are in queens and jacks. He passes, just as he should.

There isn't much to the play at two spades. West makes his normal opening lead of the jack of clubs and the defense winds up taking one spade, two hearts, a diamond and a club, which isn't quite enough to beat two spades.

One no-trump would be down one or two tricks, provided West didn't take the first spade trick. So, the major suit sign-off proved very successful.

The Jacoby Transfer Bid may be added to JACOBY MODERN. It is a fine bid and will be discussed in a few weeks. Playing the Jacoby Transfer, South would have responded two hearts and North would proceed to two spades.

North would be unhappy when South passed at two spades but he would have been very happy when he saw the dummy. No defense would beat two spades played by North and a diamond or club opening by East would give declarer an overtrick.

Overtricks don't mean much in rubber bridge. However, once in awhile the trick gained by letting the no-trump hand play the suit will be the contract trick.

Goodell on Spiro Foray — I'm Bloodied, But Also Unbowed

By United Press International
Sen. Charles E. Goodell, with the Republican national chairman in his corner, is holding his ground against Spiro T. Agnew.

"I'm bloodied but I'm unbowed," Goodell said in Rochester Wednesday after the vice president had labeled the New York GOP senator as part of "an awful liberal-radical coalition" who has "strayed beyond the point of no return" in the party.

The party chairman, Rogers C.B. Morton, however, contradicted the Agnew statement.

In Rochester with Goodell, Morton was asked if the senator is a good Republican and answered, "He is, absolutely."

If he's a good Republican in New York State, he's a good Republican across the country.

Asked if the Agnew comments represented the thinking of the White House, Morton said "I can't say for sure, but knowing the vice president, I would think he is speaking his own mind."

Agnew, at a rally in Salt Lake City, interrupted a prepared speech to amplify on earlier anti-Goodell remarks made at Minot, S. D.

"I made clear that I will not support a radical-liberal no matter what party he belongs to," the vice president said.

"I may not be orthodox but I am consistent," said Agnew.

who was considered a liberal as late as 4½ years ago when, as governor of Maryland, he backed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for president.

Morton said he endorsed the whole Republican Rockefeller-Goodell team "and I'm happy to do it." He added that James L. Buckley, Conservative Senate candidate who has been claiming at least tacit support from President Nixon, "is not a nominee of the Republican party and as such he is not a Republican candidate."

Asked if he would campaign for Goodell, the GOP national chairman replied, "Well, I am, and I'm going to Suffolk (County)."

Morton called Goodell "a good Republican."

Goodell repeated his belief that "I don't think the people of New York State are going to vote on the basis of comments of people from outside the state."

In other campaigning: Goodell joined New York Mayor John V. Lindsay in protesting Agnew's denunciation of the Scranton Commission report on campus unrest. Goodell said Agnew was wrong in stating the report seeks "to hamper law enforcement officials" on campus.

Rep. Richard L. Ottinger called Nixon's announced program to ease fuel shortages "ineffective." The Democratic Senate candidate said the proposal would "serve merely to highlight the administration's unwillingness to crack down on the oil industry's growing monopoly of all fuel resources."

Earlier in the day, Ottinger received endorsement from the executive council of Local 1199, the Drug and Hospital Workers' Union, and the AFL-CIO Local 39, the Cooks' Union.

Buckley charged that Ottinger was "an original hawk" on the Vietnam war and has, in a campaign release, attempted "to obscure his hawkish behavior by citing a letter to President Johnson on Feb. 12, 1965, in which Ottinger called Vietnam 'the wrong war at the wrong time and for the wrong cause.'" The Conservative candidate said Ottinger applauded Johnson's first bombing of North Vietnam as "one of the great acts of statesmanship in world history" and voted 23 days later for $700 million in military appropriations for war zone operations.

Arthur J. Goldberg, Democratic-Liberal opponent to Rockefeller, told the United Steelworkers of America convention in Atlantic City the 1970 election "is nothing less than a referendum on the Nixon-Agnew administration" which he said had caused unemployment, inflation, anti-union developments and higher interest rates.

"I do urge you to endorse and support the policies that serve the best interest of our country," he said. "What's good for the country is good for labor."

Goldberg, who has lost many labor endorsements to Governor Rockefeller, stressed his own association with the labor movement by pointing out that "It was in representing the Steelworkers ... that my social and political beliefs were formed."

Earlier in the day, Goldberg told a New York City businessmen's meeting that the Rockefeller administration had brought the state "to the edge of economic crisis."

He charged that nearly 400,000 workers in the state have lost their jobs under Rockefeller's stewardship, and that cost of living, taxes and the state debt have "skyrocketed" since Rockefeller took office.

Nelson A. Rockefeller shrugs (top photo) as the initial small blast fails to detonate. A workman fixed the detonator (bottom photo) and when the governor and Jackie Willis, 9, and Juan Rivers, 8, pressed the switch, the blast went off. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Pornography, Election Vice-President Attacks and Pleads

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI)—Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has coupled an attack on the just-released pornography commission report with a plea for an election of a Congress that will help President Nixon keep "posturing and shouting obscenities by the scruffy, shaggy sons of the new left."

Agnew capped a nationwide campaign tour for GOP candidates Wednesday night with a broad attack against the report and against the courts and radical liberals who he said were aiding an assault on America's sense of decency. "Decency is under assault in almost every aspect of our lives," he told a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

It is most visible in the "posturing and shouting obscenities by the scruffy, shaggy sons of the new left. But it goes even beyond them. This assault now comes from almost every direction, daily and in volume. Among the

"This erosion of decency has been abetted by a political hedonism that permeates the philosophy of the radical named by President Nixon," he said. "No sir, your honor, it's not our baby."

"Credit, or culpability, for help create the climate in which it flourishes by their inability to say no and their unwillingness to condemn."

He referred to the pornography commission as "the earlier lame-duck commission" and said its views presented in its report Wednesday do not represent the thinking of the Nixon administration. "This commission was not named by President Nixon," he said. "No sir, your honor, it's not our baby."

Rifleman's Note — No Reasons

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Arnold Proskin says a note left by Joseph W. White, who shot four state secretarial workers to death last Thursday and killed himself, "did not spell out any particular reason" for his actions.

The note was found in one of White's trouser pockets after the rifle-shooting rampage in the state Labor Department building. White, 25, and the secretaries all worked there.

His victims were Sandra Peters, 24, Patricia Rhomik, 22, Mary Ann Reinsch, 27, and Linda Willis, 21.

Proskin said an investigation "did not reveal any connection between White and his victims other than that normal to co-workers."

One phrase in the note read "sic transit gloria mundi" — Latin for "thus passes world glory."

The rest was not released verbatim because of possible legal difficulties, but Proskin said to avoid speculation every effort was made to make public the essence of the note. The summary released contains "the only facts available" according to Proskin and are "the findings of various authorities."

The note, according to Proskin, did not "name any particular individuals," but he indicated that the shootings seemed to be selective.

"He may have had other victims in mind. Other ammo was found in the building," Proskin said.

Three of the women worked on one floor, but White in his morning rampage went to another office in pursuit of the fourth.

More than 35 witnesses were questioned, according to Proskin and McArdle, but "none were able to give any indication of why White acted as he did."

"The investigation did not reveal any connection between White and his victims other than that normal to co-workers," read the reports.

White had come to the office that day to pick up a sick leave check because he had been out with a stomach ailment more than a month.

And he had purchased a gun before that absence.

"On June 20, 1970, decedent Joseph W. White looked at guns in a local sporting goods store and thereafter on July 2 and 3 arranged to purchase a .308 Remington model 702 automatic rifle," the official statement said.

He brought a long package seemingly wrapped as a gift to the office the morning of the shootings and pulled it from the well of his desk about 8:30 a.m., according to Proskin.

The package, which he then unwrapped, contained a .308 Remington rifle, which, according to Proskin, he used twice on Patricia Chromik, 22, then twice on Mrs. Sandra Peters, 24, who sat at the next desk.

Proskin said White walked into a small room and shot Linda Willis, 21, four times.

"He then turned toward the office door, where several of his fellow employees were gathered and as he did so, his weapon was pointed in their direction. It is not clear whether at this time he changed clips in the weapon or attempted to fire and found the clip to have been expended," the statement said.

He went to another floor and ending himself in the head," the statement said.

Once, Proskin said, then turned toward other workers but seemed to have trouble with the gun.

"White then left the office and proceeded to the first floor stairway, where he apparently took his own life by shoot-

Air Cadets Quit, Avoid Drug Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Five Air Force Academy cadets have resigned this school year rather than face court-martial charges of drug violations. Allegations of drug use have been made against another 14 students.

Air Force officials at the Pentagon say the accusations have led to an investigation into the use of marijuana and LSD on the Colorado Springs, Colo., campus.

Until this year, 13 cadets had been dismissed for possession, use or sale of narcotics during the school's 15-year history. All violations occurred since 1967.

The Air Force confirmed the current investigation in response to queries by The Associated Press. However, it stressed that "no academy-wide investigation of drug abuse is under way or planned."

The allegations of drug abuse against 14 cadets were made by their classmates last week.

The Air Force said three resigned the first week in September as a result of marijuana charges brought by the academy. Two were charged with possession of marijuana and the third with possession and bringing marijuana onto a military reservation.

Colorado Springs police arrested two other cadets Sept. 12 after a search of their car allegedly turned up marijuana. Police dropped the charges and turned the pair over to the academy. The two, both seniors, subsequently resigned rather than go before a court-martial board.

In a statement concerning the other 14, the Air Force said: "The investigations are based on alleged reports brought to light last week through the cadet chain of command. There is no evidence at this time that all cases have substantive facts to them. This will be determined when the investigations are completed."

'Strep Throat' Outbreak At Albany State University

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — An outbreak of "strep throat" at Albany State University at Albany prompted state health officials Wednesday to urge the school's 12,000 students to see physicians to help curb the illness.

A spokesman for the state Health Department said students on campus should visit the university clinic, and those who may have left for the Jewish holidays should consult the family doctor.

About 200 students have reported the illness, since Sept.

23, the spokesman said, and a random sampling of 204 persons showed as much as 27 percent of the enrollment may be carriers of the germ.

The streptococcal sore throat is characterized by fever, sore throat, swollen neck glands, difficulty in swallowing and general weakness. It usually lasts 3-5 days, and can be curbed by penicillin.

for Your Savings Plan

We've developed a little thing-a-magig (yours for the asking) which with the turn of a dial will tell you exactly what your savings will be every year for the next 20 years! Makes it easy for you to figure out how much you should save and what it will add up to! We call it our Savings Dial and we're offering it free to anyone who stops in. So why don't you? Stop in and pick up your free Savings Dial—then dial US for your savings.
